SHERMAN'S CAMPAIGN.

The Rebel Papers Preserving a Dismal Silence.

They Declare the News Hopeful, but Decline to Print It.

HEROIC SELF-DENIAL OF THE NEWSPAPERS.

The Feeling among Military Men at Washington.

Sherman Certain to Crush Through to the Seaboard.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Nov. 28.

The extracts from the Southern papers sent you give the latest intelligence from SHERMAN. It is obvious that the rebels have given up all hope of being able to prevent SHERMAN from reaching an outlet on the seaboard. They will confine their efforts to making this expedition as fruitless as they can. Military men here feel the utmost confidence in regard to the ultimate results of the Georgia campaign, and whatever fears have hitherto been entertained respecting its success, are now completely dismissed.

REBEL REPORTS.

From Richmond Papers of Saturday.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Nov. 28.

Richmond papers of Saturday 26th, have been received here. I am indebted to the Philadelphia Inquirer for the following:

WHERE IS GEN. SHERMAN?

From the Richmond Enquirer, Nov. 26.

The Times hunts up 40,000 men for us in Georgia. We may add 10,000 cavalry to this, and not be far out of it. But where is SHERMAN? Brig.-Gen. WINDER may yet answer this.

NO INFORMATION FOR YANKEES.

From the Richmond Dispatch, Nov. 26.

Seeing that SHERMAN is now cut off from all communication with his own country, and that the military authorities of his own nation can only hear from him through the medium of the Southern press, did we publish intelligence concerning him and his movements that reaches us, we should be guilty of the offence known as "giving information to the enemy," and would in no respect, except in motion, differ from the man who should collect information here, and committing it to writing, send it direct to GRANT's headquarters; therefore, we have concluded, until such time as reticence shall be no longer necessary, to ignore the Georgia campaign. So far as we are concerned, the Yankees shall be thrown upon their own resources to obtain intelligence from their adventurous General.

STRICT SILENCE ENJOINED.

From the Richmond Sentinel, Nov. 26.

The information from Georgia is of the most hopeful character. It is important that the Southern papers should preserve strict silence in regard to military movements in that State.

THE RUMORED CAPTURE OF MILLEDGEVILLE.

From the Richmond Enquirer, Nov. 24.

A repetition of the rumors concerning the occupation of Milledgeville by SHERMAN, occurred on yesterday, and, as the rumor, whether immediately correct or not, was accepted as a matter of course, we may suppose for the sake of a definite hypothesis, as to the situation in Georgia, that that city has fallen. Of course, there could have been no determined resistance. This supposition gives color to the rumor that a strong force of the enemy has made a demonstration upon Augusta, within twenty miles of which place, it is reported, they were encountered by our troops; that their left was driven back in confusion, and an assault by their right repulsed with severe loss. Savannah being their supposed first objective point, this movement could be scarcely more than a feint, or, more properly, a reconnoissance in force, with a view of raiding upon and destroying Augusta, if practicable, for it is well known to the enemy that Augusta is a valuable point in the Department of Georgia. If impracticable, the purposes of a feint could be secured by occupying the attention of our forces in that direction, while the movement on Savannah was being developed, from Milledgeville. It is believed that the large fleet, which has been in preparation in James River for some time past, is intended to operate with SHERMAN, at the proper moment, and that Savannah is its destination. The military authorities here were in unusually good spirits on yesterday, but whether occasioned by any good news, the publication of which would "thrill the popular heart with joy" or not, we have been unable to learn.

From Fortress Monroe.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sunday, Nov. 27.

The steamer Herman Livingston, Capt. BAKER, arrived here last evening from Port Royal Harbor, with 760 released Union prisoner, (since arrived at Annapolis.) The Livingston is the last steamer of the flag-of-truce fleet under Col. MULFORD that has arrived, and was detained at Port Royal in consequence of having been run ashore on an oyster bank, where she remained fast for several days, but finally got off with very slight damage.

The Savannah News of the 22d, in an editorial, mentions that Milledgeville was evacuated, and the archives and all the valuable Government and personal property had been removed. The columns are filled with anathemas against the invading force under SHERMAN, and with proclamations from Generals of high rank, and eminent men, calling upon the citizens of Georgia to rise en masse, and to sacrifice all interests in one desperate effort to crush and annihilate SHERMAN in his so far unresisted advance.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Destruction of the Steamer Greyhound—Narrow Escape of Gen. Butler.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Nov. 28.

The Evening Star says the mail steamer which arrived here to-day, reports that yesterday morning heavy cannoading was heard at City Point, from the direction of Petersburgh. But this is of frequent occurrence, and was occasioned by the usual artillery dueling.

On Wednesday night last, the rebels made a sudden attack on our pickets stationed near Broadway Landing, on the Appomattox. The attack was speedily repulsed, and the ground lost by our men in the surprise was retaken. During the rain and darkness of the night the rebels were enabled to gobble up a Colonel and forty men.

As the steamer Webster was coming down James River yesterday, when near Hog Island, she discovered that the steamer Greyhound, Gen. BUTLER's dispatch boat, was making signals of distress. On nearing the Greyhound she was found to be on fire. Gens. BUTLER and SCHENCK and Admiral PORTER were on board the Greyhound; but the steamer Pioneer came up and took them off. They were afterward transferred to the tug Columbus and conveyed to Fortress Monroe. The Webster took off the crew and passengers. The Greyhound had been up to City Point and was on her return when the accident took place. Gen. BUTLER and his friends were at dinner at the time. Suddenly the furnace doors blew open and scattered the coals all over the floor, driving the firemen and engineers from their rooms. The Greyhound was almost immediately enveloped in flames, and notwithstanding every effort to save her, she was burned to the water's edge. Ten horses belonging to Gen. BUTLER and Staff were burnt to death. Shortly before the accident, the Greyhound had received from the steamer Cossack, the army mail for Gen. BUTLER's department, which left Washington yesterday morning, and it is supposed to be lost.

The Webster brought up fifty-nine rebel prisoners under the charge of Lieut. FRELEIGH, and a detachment of the Twentieth New York militia.

FROM NEWBERN.

Great Fire—Heavy Losses—Disappearance of the Yellow Fever.

NEWBERN, Friday, Nov. 25.

Newbern was visited by a large fire on the night of the 19th, which consumed a large portion of one of the principal business blocks in the city. It originated in the ice-cream saloon on Middle-street, extending to the Medical Purveyor's depot, on Broad-street. The fire was arrested by blowing up two stores on Middle-street, which demolished the windows of the Episcopal Church, opposite. The loss is quite severe to the parties interested, especially in goods, as only a small portion was saved.

The yellow fever has entirely disappeared. The past three nights have been accompanied with a heavy frost and freezing weather, which insures Newbern against the reappearance of the fever.

A daily line of steamers is now established between Fortress Monroe and Newbern. Parties returning to this city by this route are obliged to exhibit documents showing that they are loyal, and have legitimate business here.

A skirmish occurred the other day at Plymouth, in which the enemy were repulsed.

It is reported that the enemy are fortifying the Roanoke and Chowan Rivers, with the view of evacuating Virginia.

NEWBERN, Saturday, Nov. 26.

The great fire which occurred here Saturday night last consumed 20 buildings, mostly business houses, some of which contained large stocks of goods, which, as a general thing, were not insured. Hulbert & McLean, Robert Dunn, J. B. Oxley, J. A. Thompson, J. N. Allen, John McSarley, J. Lewis, L. Baer, L. Montaines, John Good, R. McElroy, J. J. Schillinger, R. Berry and Mr. Bangert are the principal sufferers. Col. POOR, Provost-Marshal, and Gen. PALMER were on the ground in person, with a strong military force, who, with the aid of powder, lent great assistance to the fire department in arresting the progress of the flames.

The Newbern Times made its appearance to-day, having been suspended during the prevalence of the yellow fever.

Rout of Guerrillas near Yellow Creek, Ky.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

The Pirate Florida in Collision with an Army Steamer.

The Florida Sunk in Nine Fathoms Water.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Nov. 28.

The Navy Department has also the following telegram:

FORTRESS MONROE, Nov. 28, 1864.

Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy:

I have received a telegram from the Commander of the prize steamer Florida, informing me that she had sunk in nine fathoms of water.

She had been run into by an army steamer and badly damaged.

I have not heard the particulars.

I will inform the Department when I receive the written report.

DAVID D. PORTER, Rear-Admiral.

A dispatch to the Navy Department, from Admiral PORTER, dated Fortress Monroe, to-day, says: "The United States steamer Fort Morgan arrived at this port at 10 o'clock on the afternoon of the 27th inst., with the rebel Admiral FRANKLIN BUCHANAN and his two Aids on board."

Important Circular from Admiral Porter Regarding the Movements of Pilots.

FORTRESS MONROE, Saturday, Nov. 26.

The following important circular relating to the future movements of the pilots, has been issued by Rear-Admiral PORTER:

NORTH ATLANTIC SQUADRON, }
FLAGSHIP MALVERN, Nov. 23, 1864. }

Complaints are made by commanders of naval vessels that pilots are seldom seen until close into Cape Henry, and often not until they get inside. In time of war, when the delay of an hour is important to the Government, this neglect on the part of pilots to do their duty, for which they are so amply paid, will not be tolerated.

The boats must cruise further out, and be on the look-out at all times for Government vessels. I will have a register kept of those pilot boats that do not do their duty; and when brought to my notice, I will order them in, anchor them for the rest of the season, and not permit them to pilot in these waters.

In case an accident happens to a Government vessel, owing to a want of energy on the part of pilots, or an absence of pilot boats from their beats, without good and sufficient cause, proceedings will be instituted, and the parties made to suffer for their negligence.

Pilot boats, when they can do so, must cruise at least eight (8) miles to the northward, and ten (10) miles to the southward of Cape Henry; and when the weather will not permit them to cruise, they must anchor near Cape Henry, ready to give any vessel a pilot that may require one.

Preference must at all times be given to public vessels.

Naval officers are directed to report to me any delinquincies on the part of pilots, and are always to note in their log-books how far outside the light-house the pilots offer their services.

One pilot-boat must at all times be in port ready to take vessels out, and be prompt in complying with signals.

DAVID D. PORTER, Rear Admiral,
Commanding North Atlantic Squadron.

The mail steamer S. Collier, from City Point, Va., brings no news.

Affairs are represented to be in the same quiet state.

THE WAR IN TENNESSEE.

Reported Retreat of Gen. Thomas to Franklin, Tenn.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Monday, Nov. 28.

Gen. THOMAS is reported to have retreated to Franklin, Tennessee.

The military authorities here say that if the report is correct, Gen. THOMAS must be preparing to receive the large reinforcements now on their way to him before giving battle to HOOD, and that he has fallen back for no other purpose.

Gen. Beauregard's Army at Pulaski—Gen. Thomas Falls Back to Duck River—Beauregard Reinforced by Dick Taylor—Gen. Hood Sick at Florence, Ala.—Beauregard's Entire Army 43,000 Strong—Brief Description of Prominent Points in Middle Tennessee.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Friday, Nov. 25, 1864.

THE SITUATION.

Only a few days have transpired since my last letter; but during that time the relative positions of our own and BEAUREGARD's armies have experienced changes of material interest.

On Saturday last, BEAUREGARD's advance was at Waynesboro, Tenn., as you will recollect, under Gen. FRANK CHEATHAM, of this city. This advance comprised one corps. The other two corps, respectively commanded by Gens. STEWART and LEE, were at Florence, Ala., and Corinth, Miss. BEAUREGARD's headquarters being at the latter place, and HOOD's at Florence.

On Tuesday, the whole rebel army, reinforced by DICK TAYLOR, with nine thousand men, was in motion. Almost the entire force having reached Tennessee, FRANK CHEATHAM, with his corps and about three thousand of FORREST's cavalry, moved toward Pulaski, and were encamped on the night of the 22d within twenty miles of that place.

This is quite correct, and is known at all headquarters. In the way of receiving information, the rebel leaders have very little advantage of us in this section of the country, as our officers and soldiers know every foot of the ground hereabouts; while, in addition, we are surfeited with news brought in by reliable Union men, who are quite numerous in Middle Tennessee. Northern Alabama and Northern Mississippi.

The movement is a formidable one, by the way, and, evidently, BEAUREGARD means business. He has, no doubt, left Corinth, as HOOD's illness requires his presence in the field. HOOD is suffering with rheumatism, it is said, but still remains at Florence. From a multiplicity of sources, we learn that the rebel officers boast of striking Nashville. By a glance at the map, it will be seen that they menace us to no inconsiderable degree; and, had our army remained at Pulaski, a flank movement on their part could have been easily performed—our line of communication would have been threatened, and Nashville placed in imminent danger. As it is, everything is all right on our side, as will be seen.

Leaving the movements of the enemy, on Tuesday night, Gen. THOMAS issued orders for his army to fall back from Pulaski to Columbia, Tenn., the commencement of which took place Wednesday morning, and while I write, nearly our whole army is this side of Duck River, which passes Columbia, about a mile to the north. Thus, you see, it draws the rebel army from its base, and places a great obstacle, in the shape of a river, between our own and BEAUREGARD's army.

As most any one would naturally conjecture, matters cannot remain this way long; and, in all probability, a great battle will occur in a short time upon the soil of Tennessee, the thunders of which will echo along the banks of Stone River, and die away reverberating among the cedar forrests and mountain spurs of the old battle-field itself.

There are various opinions rife regarding the enemy's intentions. Some think that BEAUREGARD is going to pitch right in and whip THOMAS and take Nashville. Others think that he is going to pitch right in and not whip THOMAS, and not take Nashville. Some think that at this late day, he will make an attempt, via Huntsville and the Cherokee country, to catch SHERMAN, while others think that he will pass to our left, and attempt to place his army upon the Chattanooga Railroad, between our forces here and those at Bridgeport. In the latter case, he would take many risks of having his army cut off, and again, we have a move ahead of him should he attempt scheming in any such unmilitary manner. And, this sure, I do not believe he will go Shermanward. So, in my opinion, it resolves itself down that he must fight, or retreat in the same way he came. Time will develop this, and further speculation is unnecessary and useless.

The most serious aspect presented thus far is the loss to us again of Northern Alabama and portions of Middle Tennessee, where a great many true men reside, and where a great deal of work by Government has been expended. Very little Government property, however, will be abandoned, as no supplies or anything of that sort have accumulated directly south of Nashville since the Forrest raid some six weeks ago.

From all that I can learn, especially since the junction formed by DICK TAYLOR's army, BEAUREGARD's forces are numerically stronger than has generally been reported. We must not deceive ourselves; and I think I about hit the exact number when I put it at 43,000, all told, as follows:

Stephen D. Lee's corps, about	6,000
Stewart's corps, about	6,000
Frank Cheatham's corps, about	8,000
Dick Taylor's army	9,000
Forrest's cavalry	14,000
Total	43,000

FORREST, it will be remembered, is a Lieutenant-General, and has all the cavalry in BEAUREGARD's army, as well as his old independent command, under his sole charge. It is known that he has been reinforced from various sources, and the figure given above, although it may seem quite large, is certainly not in excess of his command of horse, well armed and equipped.

As the war has again been transferred to Middle Tennessee, I will give you a brief description of some of the most important prominent points.

Columbia, at which place the Federal army, under Gen. GEORGE H. THOMAS, is at present located, is situated in Maury County, upon a slight eminence, upon the south bank of Duck River, about forty-five miles south from Nashville. This place was first captured by Gen. BUELL, in March, 1862, and held by Gen. NEGLEY until the retrograde movement of the former in September of the same year. From that time it remained in rebel possession until Gen. ROSECRANS advanced upon Tullahoma, in July, 1863, since which time it has remained in our hands. It is the seat of justice of one of the most flourishing counties in the State, and before the war, contained three thousand inhabitants. It is the centre of a fine cotton-growing county, and is the home of the Polks and the Pillows, and other celebrated families. Nearly all of Maury County was put to cotton this year.

Duck River is an east branch of the Tennessee, and at this time of the year it is very deep and difficult to ford. It rises in the mountains near the line of Marion County, and pursues a comparative course of 150 miles northwest, through the counties of Franklin, Bedford, Maury, Hickman, Williamson, Dickson and Humphreys, passing the towns of Columbia, Shelbyville and Centreville. It is navigable for boats following the bends about 100 miles, and is declared a public highway as high as Shelbyville.

Franklin, at which place are our reserves, is a beautiful town upon the Nashville and Decatur Railroad, 18 miles from this city. It is situated in Williamson County, upon the south bank of Big Harpeth River, and contained a population before the war of nearly 2,000 people. No place, I believe, has changed hands so often as this, it having been at least a dozen times, first in rebel then in Federal possession.

Big Harpeth River has its source in Bedford County, and flows northwest through Williamson, past the town of Franklin, enters Davidson County, and falls into the Cumberland River 35 miles below this city, after a general comparative course of 60 miles.

Pulaski, at which place the rebel army under Gen. BEAUREGARD is at present located, is the seat of justice of Giles County, and before the war was a flourishing town, containing nearly 3,000 inhabitants. It is pleasantly situated on Richland Creek, a north branch of the Elk River, and is 70 miles by rail south of Nashville. It is 44 miles northwest of Huntsville, Ala., and 50 miles east northeast of Florence, Ala.

In conclusion, I will add that ere this, in all probability, the towns of Huntsville, Athens and Decatur, all situated in Northern Alabama, the former the home of JERE CLEMENS, are in rebel possession.

Capture of Rebels While Crossing the River—Recovery of Gen. Canby.

CAIRO, Ill., Monday, Nov. 28.

The steamer Continental, from New-Orleans on the evening of the 21st, has arrived here.

Twenty-seven rebels were captured while crossing from the east to the west side of the Mississippi River at Choctaw Bluff, and had arrived at New-Orleans. Among them was Capt. M. D. MONTGOMERY, who was moving to Texas. He had a large amount of stock, and $250,000 in foreign exchange, all of which was captured with him.

Gen. CANBY is rapidly recovering, and will soon be out again. He is able to attend to business at his house.

The demand for cotton has been somewhat checked lately. Sales made at $1 30 for Low Middling, and $1 35 for Middling.

Five notorious rebel female smugglers and mail carriers have been banished outside of our lines, by Gen. DAVIS, at Vicksburgh.

OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENCE.

The Seizure of the Florida—Sentiment upon American Questions—The St. Alban's Raid—A Curious Conclusion—The Moniteur.

PARIS, Friday, Nov. 11, 1864.

Our foreign enemies, as you will see, are deeply concerned about the affair of the Florida at Bahia. It is true they have only thus far received the Confederate side of the story; but that makes no difference. A great and a flagrant outrage has been committed on the neutrality of Brazil, and on the common law of the sea, and they call upon the maritime Powers to demand a reparation for the offence. If Brazil, they say, has not the courage to do her duty in the matter, France and England ought to back her up by a formal protestation.

Ever since the commencement of the rebellion the enemies of the Republic in Europe have been looking for and hoping for the arrival of some event which would enable all the leading Powers to combine against us and perpetuate the division and destruction of the country. Their hearts are so set upon this result, that they catch with desperation at every shadow of the hoped-for event; and they sieze on this affair at Bahia, as little promise as it offers, as a means to accomplish their end. Thus, when we see that by the rebellion of the South and the opposition of the Democratic party of the North, the loyal population of the Republic is reduced to fifteen millions of persons; when we see all the world howling around the frontiers of these fifteen millions of devoted men and women, trying to find a weak place to break through; and when we reflect that the future of the Republic and of civilization depends on these fifteen millions of devoted people thus surrounded and undermined, we shudder at the magnitude of the burden they have undertaken to carry. Certainly no other fifteen millions on the face of the earth could stand up and walk on to victory under such a burden.

At this moment several of the papers, commenting on the late interviews between European sovereigns, and on the period of general peace Europe is apparently entering, are urging the abstract principle that all the European States ought to arrange their affairs and settle their disputed points, so as to be able to form a general European alliance against a future American alliance; that is to say, be prepared to pit continent against continent. In order that the argument should be worth anything, they presuppose that the American States are going to remain Republican in form, and are going to become powerful and dangerous enemies.

But there are other and more powerful reasons for settling the pending disputes than this. The political economists just now are making themselves heard, and they have no trouble in covering with shame crowned heads who, while clinking glasses together in peace and friendship, are maintaining in the field immense standing armies, which are burdening the State with taxes, and taking the flower of the population away from the farm and the shop. On his part, NAPOLEON thinks of nothing now but transmitting in surety his crown to his son, and the way to secure this end is to quiet the suspicions of other Governments, and arrange matters on a basis of permanent peace.

The attack on St. Alban's, Vt., under the authority of a warrant from JEFF. DAVIS, is going to have a singular result. The Secessionists abroad are now discussing the question whether they may not, under a like warrant, attack and pillage the American Legations at Paris, London and elsewhere. For example, the American Legation at Paris is considered as American soil, and is inviolable to the authorities of the country. It pays no taxes to the Government, no arrests for any offence whatever can be made within its doors without the consent of the Minister, and it is essentially as well as technically a bit of inviolable American soil, moved near to the seat of the French Government for the more convenient transaction of international business. Now, since the house of Mr. DAYTON is American soil, independent of the local authorities, and since France has granted the South belligerent rights, why may not the rebels at Paris just as well attack that house and pillage it as to attack and pillage the St. Alban's Bank? If the law justifies one it will the other, and the American Ministers abroad have nothing to do but to barricade their doors and cut portholes in their walls as soon as possible.

The secession press now admit that Mr. LINCOLN is probably reëlected President, and that there are no immediate hopes of peace, for, of course, they do not admit that peace can come by war. The Moniteur continues its outrageously unfair treatment of the American war, especially in the cheap edition for the people, the Government having seemingly given over the management of this part of its news columns to men who are bound by some strong tie to the rebellion, and who stop at nothing to back up their cause. There is some mystery in this business, for it is certain that the men who are charged with the American department of the official paper could not have received instructions to publish continually the exact opposite of the truth. However the sympathies of the Government may be, it is yet too dignified to seek to obtain its ends by a system of such paltry and transparent lying.

MALAKOFF.

OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

Muller—Parliament—Capture of the Florida—Arming the Negroes—Banquet to M. Berryer—Gold vs. Paper—Italy—Garibaldi—London Sensations—Tom Brown—a Singular Suicide—Stars, Operatic, Dramatic and Literary.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 12, 1864.

MULLER, it seems, is to be hanged on Monday, a week earlier than is necessary, perhaps on account of the increasing efforts to procure a reprieve. The workmen commenced yesterday to make preparations in the street before the prison. It is an English custom to have public executions in the streets. Even the heads of kings used to be chopped off on the public highway, and in going from Charing Cross to the House of Parliament, you drive your carriage over the very spot where CHARLES I. achieved his martyrdom. As to MULLER, though there is a general and determined conviction of his guilt, there are too many doubts for the quiet of the public conscience. In such a case, I would have the accused examined in the French manner. He might have shown his innocence, or proved his guilt. Three men have written to the authorities from different parts of England, each declaring that MULLER was innocent, and that they committed the murder. If only one had done so, it might have been of service. There were too many of them. No remarkable murder is committed in London that men do not come forward and accuse themselves of the crime—bothering the magistrates, and compelling them to prove an alibi, which, however, is not very difficult.

Parliament was yesterday prorogued to the 13th of January, to be again prorogued to the usual time of meeting in February. It appears, therefore, that there is to be no dissolution, and we are to lose the excitement and incidental benefits of a general election.

The capture of the Florida has occupied the papers to some extent, but Governments and peoples are waiting to hear whether the act is accepted by the authorities at Washington. It is generally supposed that it will be promptly disavowed, as in the case of the Trent—the Florida sent back, with her officers and crew, to Bahia, and reparation made to the Brazilian Government, accompanied, of course, with the punishment of the Captain of the Wachusett and the American Consul. Should this not be the case, I should expect the European Powers to aid Brazil in whatever action it might think proper to take in the premises. The English storm about the violation of a neutral harbor—they say that some Yankee cruiser will be cutting Confederate vessels out of Cork or Liverpool harbors, or arresting Mr. MASON in Pall Mall, or Mr. SLIDELL in the Champs Elysées—but they comfort themselves with the idea that if the Washington Government should establish the precedent, they, in case of a war, will be able to pursue hostile cruisers into every harbor in America. Taking that view of the matter, Earl RUSSELL may conclude not to "meddle" or "muddle." So far as I have seen, the only newspaper in England that defends the capture of the Florida, is the Morning Star. The News says that if the accounts are substantially true, the Captain of the Wachusett has done his Government more injury than it was in the power of the whole Confederate navy to do. There is some curiosity to hear what view the New-York Chamber of Commerce will take of the transaction.

The proposition of the Southern Governors to raise an army of 250,000 negroes, or to bring into the field every able-bodied man without distinction of color, meets with general favor. The Abolitionists see in it freedom for the negro, and that is all they have cared for from the beginning of the war. They had rather the Union were shattered into a dozen Confederacies, and the negro free, than it should be preserved, and the negro kept in slavery. They rejoice therefore in the prospect of arming the slaves, because it will make them freemen. The great body of Abolitionists have no sympathy with the Constitution or the Union. They have been condemning both for thirty years as the great upholders of slavery. The real Union party in this country is not a philanthropic, but a political one. Republicans here and on the continent are grieved at any sign of the failure of the great model Republic, because they have hoped that its example first, and later its aid, might extend the republican or democratic system to Europe. Mr. BRIGHT, a peace man and an Abolitionist, is more than all a Republican, and it is for that reason that he has done everything in his power to support the Federal Government and the war.

The London Bar has given a magnificent dinner to the celebrated French Advocate, Mr. BERRYER. Lord BROUGHAM, the Solicitor-General, and the whole Bar, to the number of 400 persons, attended the banquet, considered one of the finest ever given in London.

A law case of some interest has been decided at Liverpool. The cook of the ship Conflict sued the Captain for his wages, at $45 per month. The Captain tendered the money at the rate of 100 per cent. premium for gold. The court decided that a dollar in Liverpool was a dollar, and that he must be paid the whole face of the contract, not in a depreciated paper, but in gold. If this rule is to stand, ship Captains will do well to pay their hands in advance, or reword their agreements, and sailors, of course, will also do well to get their wages paid on this side the water.

The treaty of peace between Germany and Denmark has been published, but you will not thank me, just now, for any particulars. Italy is preparing to accept Florence for a capital. The French Government has declared its understanding of the convention, which is simply that VICTOR EMANUEL has engaged to keep his hands from Rome, and will be held to that engagement. The French army will be withdrawn only because the King of Italy has given bonds to keep the peace, and make everybody else keep it toward his neighbor, the Pope. I predict that in less than a year, there will be a reconciliation. Italy is involved in debt; the finances are not in an encouraging condition; the people are dissatisfied with the burthens which their freedom has brought upon them, and peace and economy are necessities. Rome they must do without, and Venetia must wait. This view of the case would not suit our friend GARIBALDI, and does not suit his English sympathisers, but I believe it is the true one.

By the way, GARIBALDI has written to KARL BLIND, in London, that it was a great mistake to suppose he was no longer the friend of the North in the American war. He says: "Woe to the world if the North did not come victorious out of this struggle."

If I turn to domestic affairs, I fear there will be but dull work. The only excitement I know of is that made by the Brothers DAVENPORT. The Illustrated Times has an engraving of their cabinet performance, with tall Mr. FERGUSON standing by the side, looking, it is said, like Gen. JACKSON or JEFF. DAVIS. Punch makes them the basis of a political caricature. A music-seller has got out a Davenport gallop. Finally, SAUNDERS, OTLEY & Co. announce a biography of the Brothers DAVENPORT, said to be written "by an eminent hand." They open on Monday night at the Agricultural Hall, probably the largest in London, and intend to give afternoon exhibitions at the Crystal Palace. Vive—but I doubt if any language will be equal to the occasion.

It seems probable that there will be a strong fight over the whole matter before the year is out. The English are a stiff-necked and hard-headed people. The only way to convert them to anything is to begin at the top and work down. The DAVENPORTS have secured several leading men of letters, one Viscount and two or three Baronets. That, however, is not enough. They should convert Her Majesty the Queen, if she is not, as commonly reported, a spiritualist already, and his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury. Then it would go along easy. We follow our leaders over here.

Mr. TOM HUGHES, alias Tom Brown, of Rugby and Oxford, has been appointed in the Military Department, on the staff of Lord DE GRAY. Mr. HUGHES has not won this appointment entirely by literary merit. He has been an active supporter of the Government, and also engaged in the volunteer movement.

Some people like original methods, even if committing suicide. What do you think of a man tying his head to one of the rails on a railway, as was done the other day near Liverpool?

The operatic and dramatic stars of your acquaintance seem to be doing well. The PATTI has made a grand triumphal march across Europe, and must have reached Samarcand by this time, en route to Pekin. Mr. SOTHERN and Miss BATEMAN are having a wonderful tour "in the Provinces." Miss ADAH, who has put warm flannels under her silk tights, is bound—on that wild steed—to play "Mazeppa" at Astley's till it is time to reopen Cremorne. JOHN BROUGHAM, after a short spell of rheumatism at Brighton, has gone to Dublin, to bring out a local drama, which he has constructed with Mr. BOUCICAULT. He has left the Lyceum for a very good artistic reason. In the last drama he wrote for Mr.

FECHTER, he made his own part superior to that of the manager's, and then played it so well as not only to divide, but to carry off the greater share of the honors. Mr. FECHTER is a good man. We all thought him a saint, to put up with this for a whole season. It was a great indiscretion in Mr. JOHN BROUGHAM, and time has proved that the manager of the Lyceum is mortal like the rest of us. We have lost a saint, and we have lost BROUGHAM for the present.

The personal property of the late Mr. ROBSON, the actor, was nearly $30,000. These are good days for actors and men of letters—for a few of each. Out of the fifteen hundred writers of London, fifty are paid munificently. Actors in about the same proportion. The correspondents of the press, naturally, being the most useful and important personages connected with it, get the highest pay. Few men can bear prosperity, and nothing has prevented me from becoming entirely crazed with good fortune but a slight discount caused by difference in exchange.

AMERICAN TOPICS.

THE SEIZURE OF THE FLORIDA.

A FRENCH VIEW.

Correspondence of the British Army and Navy Journal.

PARIS, Thursday, Nov. 10.

The Siècle, which paper invariably writes on Mr. LINCOLN's side, has an intricate article on maritime law to which WHEATON and a French authority, ORTOLAN, are extensively cited. The question of the capture of the Florida is the subject placed under treatment. The Siècle does not think the illegality of the act very clearly proved, and its first argument is that the aforesaid ORTOLAN and WHEATON both concur, that when one belligerent captures another belligerent in neutral waters, as the neutral Power is the one insulted, that Power can alone appear at the bar and demand redress from the wrongdoer. If then Brazil does not consider that she has been wounded in her dignity, and will not complain of the outrage done under the guns of one of her forts, and after a Brazilian admiral had invited the Florida to take up her moorings inside his vessel, then the Florida becomes a legal capture, and nothing more can be said of the matter. M. BERNARD, who writes this article, must consider force as legality. Supposing a British ship had committed this act on a Greek ship, if Brazil refused to complain to England on account of the great inequality of the two Powers engaged, the act would be legalized! Now M. BERNARD has some idea that Brazil will not complain, for he says that he thinks he can remember that about two years ago the Brazilian Government, justly irritated at the coolness with which some Confederate corsairs had established, without any permission, a coal depot on an isle dependent on empire, ordered them off the coast, and told them never to present themselves again in Brazilian ports. M. BERNARD does not know if this order was ever rescinded; but "if it still existed, its existence may explain the inaction of the Governor of Bahia during and after the capture." Considering that one of the first things that Capt. MORRIS did on entering the harbor was to have an interview with the Governor, and get leave to have his machinery repaired, M. BERNARD's argument is one of the most extraordinary on record. The Governor, too, asked Capt. MORRIS not to violate the neutrality of the harbor. This article concludes with a quotation from ORTOLAN, taken from the Diplomatie de la Mer:

"Mr. LAWRENCE, and after him, Mr. PHILLIMORE make mention of a case referring to a violation of neutral territory which took place in the Azores. The brig Gen. Armstrong was anchored in the bay close to the English squadron, and was fired on by one of the British vessels. The Captain of the brig found himself under the necessity of abandoning his vessel and destroying her. The claims which were afterward put in by the United States against Portugal for compensation were submitted by both parties to the Prince President in 1851, who decided that no indemnity was due."

If my recollection is not greatly at fault, the true case of the General Armstrong's capture was this: A British frigate was sent out to chase her; she found her in the Azores, and was engaged in watching her. One night, wishing to ascertain if the General was about to slip off to sea, the English Captain sent a boat to row round her. The Yankee Captain, seeing a craft stealing alongside him in the dark, beat to quarters and fired into the English boat, who had no intention of boarding. The boat returned, reporting one man either killed or wounded. It was the General who, attributing illegal motives to the British frigate, first disturbed the neutrality, and then paid the consequence of a hasty error. The frigate, after having had her boat fired on, was quite right to avenge this breach of maritime law, and to return the compliment. The case was perhaps a hard one for the "General," but Prince NAPOLEON could only decide the matter between the United States and Portugal on its natural merits.

M. BERNARD, who has only given a portion of the facts, must have read the whole case in the documents from which he has quoted. However, party writing here is intensely dishonest.

"CLOSE THE PORTS."

From the Shipping Gazette, Nov. 11.

Applying these principles of international maritime law to the case of the Florida, it is clear that the Brazilian Government is bound to make a formal demand upon the Cabinet of Washington for the restitution of the ship, and to insist upon the demand being complied with. If the latter Government have any regard for consistency, or any respect for the dictates of that law which has been so frequently invoked by the United States, they will not hesitate to comply, and to disavow the act of the Commander of the Wachusett. If they do not, whatever course Brazil may pursue in vindicating her outraged sovereignty, it will be the duty of all neutral States, so long as the war lasts, to close their ports against the armed ships of a State which openly sets the laws of neutrality at defiance. The interest, therefore, with which the next advices from America are looked for is very intelligible, affecting, as they may do, the credit and reputation of the Federal Government with all neutral States. Mr. LINCOLN and his colleagues need not adopt the act of their officer. Until they do so they cannot be held responsible. But if they, with all the facts before them, indorse the commission of a deliberate outrage upon the sovereignty of a friendly State, they will have themselves only to thank for the consequences.

THE UNITED STATES NAVY "THE COMMON PEST OF THE SEAS."

From the London Herald, Nov. 12.

So long as the Federal Government can enjoy the profits of lawless outrages at the cheap price of a diplomatic apology—so long as the perpetrators are merely reprimanded at the time and rewarded afterward—outrage will be the constant fate of the minor neutral States, perhaps of Great Britain herself. The surrender of Messrs. MASON and SLIDELL was followed by the promotion of Capt. WILKES and a series of insults to our flag and illegal captures of our ships. We must take care that the present crime is not so easily atoned and so well rewarded, if we would put any restraint at all on the lawless temper and aggressive insolence which are fast converting the navy of the United States into the common pest of the seas—the general enemy of the human race.

THE PIRATE SEA KING.

THE BRITISH EXECUTIVE POWERLESS TO PREVENT THE SHIPMENT OF CANNON FOR THE PIRATES.

From the Shipping Gazette, Nov. 12.

Our readers will have seen, a few days since, that we announced the arrival of a large ship-rigged steamer off Madeira, which steamer signalized to the Laurel, then in Funchal Roads, on board which vessel it was known that the Confederate Commander, Capt. SEMMES, then was, and that both vessels had put to sea together. In a subsequent announcement of this fact, we stated that we had every reason to believe that the full-rigged steamer was the Sea King, which vessel had recently cleared out of the East India Dock, ostensibly for Bombay, but in reality for Madeira. For this statement we had, as we knew, sufficient grounds, and we saw no reason for concealing or withdrawing a piece of intelligence of very great interest to the maritime and commercial community. It is well known that the Confederate Government would not leave Capt. SEMMES without a ship one hour longer than could be avoided; and it has been no secret that the loss of the Alabama would, if possible, be supplemented in this country. Our statement, however, of the meeting of the Laurel and Sea King off Madeira had hardly appeared, when it met with an emphatic contradiction from a Liverpool cotemporary, who "was in a position to state that there was no foundation for the report" which appeared in these columns. Seeing that the Sea King is owned, or until very recently has been owned, in Liverpool, our contemporary's local knowledge might be supposed to have lent authority to his prompt denial. It turns out, however, that our report respecting the Sea King and her destination is correct in every particular. A vessel, named the Calabar, has just arrived in Liverpool from Madeira, and she states that the screw steamer Sea King was not only there, but that before the Calabar left she had joined the Laurel out at sea, and that both ships disappeared in company. There seems to be no doubt, therefore, that Capt. SEMMES, late of the Alabama, is once more on the deck of a ship under the Confederate flag capable, no doubt, of being converted into a most formidable and efficient cruiser. Capt. SEMMES, when he left for Madeira in the Laurel, was accompanied by eighty men, most if not all of them members of the crew of his late ship. When, where, and in what manner the Sea King is to receive her armament we do not pretend to say, but we presume that, having accomplished the greater achievement of getting possession of the vessel, the lesser achievement of supplying her armament will not be too much for the Confederate Captain and his followers. Whatever may be the opinion as to the legality or illegality of supplying ships convertible to war purposes to the Confederates, it is evident that the Executive is powerless to prevent or intercept such supplies; and if it were otherwise, and the sale of ships or munitions of war to either belligerent was effectively interdicted, the purchasers would at once resort to the French, or other continental ports, and procure whatever they require. We read of vessels being openly built on Confederate account in the private shipyards of France, and the trade has not been banned by the French Executive, notwithstanding the very strict and honorable neutrality maintained since the commencement of the war by the Emperor's Government. The lengthened legal proceedings in the case of the Alexandra and of the steam rams, only went to prove that the sale of such vessels to any purchasers was no offence against the only law on the statute-book supposed to affect them. It is idle to conceal the truth. So long as this lamentable war lasts, the belligerents will continue to resort to our ports and manufactories to procure the means of carrying it on, whether by land or sea. It is, no doubt, competent for the Queen in Council, at any moment, to interdict the commerce between this country and the American States, so far as warlike means and appliances are concerned. No such step has been taken, or, if taken, it has not been followed up. Her Majesty, indeed, would be ill-advised to interfere with or interrupt the operations of trade. A respect for the neutrality which we are bound to maintain renders it imperative to deal impartially between the belligerents, and there seems to be no alternative between admitting both parties to procure here whatever they want, and closing our ports against both as long as the war lasts. The latter alternative will never be resorted to, we may be quite certain. It would hardly be practicable, and it would certainly not be expedient. We need not, therefore, be surprised if we hear that the Confederates, like their antagonists, supplement their losses, or otherwise supply their need, through their agents in this country. They are, so far as we are concerned, simply purchasers, and there is nothing in the law of this country, so far as it has been declared, to prevent our dealing with them indiscriminately.

THE TROUBLE ON THE SEA KING.

From the European Times, Nov. 12.

Several days ago we announced that a steamer, named the Laurel, left Liverpool under circumstances which excited suspicion. It was ultimately ascertained that Capt. SEMMES and about 100 men were on board; but this statement was denied by Mr. LAFORE, of Liverpool. He wrote a letter to the effect that the Laurel did not take out Capt. SEMMES; that the number of her crew was not more than that required for a vessel of the Laurel's size; and that she carried out a few passengers (seamen) to replace those who had died of fever at Bermuda and Nassau on board steamers engaged in the blockading business. By the arrival at Liverpool yesterday of the African mail steamer Calabar, we learn that the Laurel has been at Madeira, and so has a large screw steamer, named the Sea King, which received a crew on board from the Laurel. Thirty-six of the men, however, refused to join the Sea King, and came home in the Calabar.

Education in Brooklyn.

To the Editor of the Brooklyn Union:

Observing that you have not refused a helpful courtesy to the friends of new enterprises in education in our city of schools and churches, I beg leave to direct the attention of your readers to a new institution in which you are aware that I have no manner of private interest, being in fact wholly identified with another.

The boarding and day school for young ladies recently opened on the Heights (No. 120 Remsen-street) by Miss HARRISON, Miss RANNEY, and Mrs. NEWTON, is no common-place accession to our already unrivaled facilities for female education. For this statement I will trouble you with only three reasons:

1. The three principals above-named (not to mention assistants of distinction) have heretofore been eminent among female educators, and thus bring to the actual details of instruction an unusual combination of talent united with the earnestness of personal interest and responsibility.

2. Their known principles and aims as teachers, with their reputations for scholarship and energy, afford a guarantee of what so many sigh for—a solid and thorough education of girls. To philosophical educators this guarantee is greatly strengthened by the single fact, that (while the attention demanded by custom and taste is yielded to the more fashionable accomplishments) the Latin language is strongly insisted on and taught with scholarly precision as the corner-stone of a liberal culture.

3. The home presided over by Mrs. NEWTON offers to the student from a distance, in its rare liberality, elegance, and kindliness, the completest antithesis to all authorized conceptions of the "boarding-school."

The experience of a pupil in whom I am interested enables and impels me, without the knowledge of any one concerned, to offer this testimonial to the public.

Act of Congress Without Date of Approval—Effect of an Amendment by Subsequent Joint Resolution.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—NOV. 28.

Before Judge Nelson.

George A. Gardner vs. Hiram Barney.—NELSON, C. J.—This suit is brought against the Collector to recover back duties upon a large number of packages of tea imported from China in April, 1864, and which were paid under protest. The duties claimed were paid under what purported to be an Act of Congress of the 24th of December, 1861, that imposed a duty upon teas of twenty cents per pound, and amounted to the sum of $25,766 80, whereas the importer insisted the duties were chargeable only at fifteen cents per pound, under the Act of 5th of August, 1861, amounting to the sum of $19,825 10.

It appears that the Act of Congress imposing the higher duty, has no date of the year or the day of its approval by the President. The only date is the 24th December, and on this ground it is insisted that the act is inoperative and void. It provides that from and after its passage in lieu of the duties heretofore imposed, there shall be levied on teas twenty cents per pound. The date, as will be seen from the terms of the Act, is material in order to give to it effect and operation.

The question, whether the date of an Act of Congress can be proved aliunde, was very fully examined, and the authorities referred to, on the argument; but, upon the view we have taken of the case, it will not be material to enter upon this inquiry, as we think there is a more satisfactory ground upon which to place the decision.

By a joint resolution passed by both houses of Congress, and approved by the President Jan. 11, 1862, this act was referred to by its title as having been passed on the 24th December, 1861, explaining and modifying its provisions. By the act as passed the increased duties were chargeable, according to the true construction of it, on all teas that had not passed the Custom-house, and which were subject to duty, from and after the passage of the act. Its operation was not restrained, as perhaps is usual, in the amendment of these revenue laws, to goods imported after its passage. Hence teas already imported, and on board ship, or in warehouses, were liable to this enhanced duty. The joint resolution qualified the act, as respected teas in warehouses at the date of its passage, and directed that the Secretary of the Treasury permit them to be withdrawn on payment of the duty of fifteen cents per pound under the previous act of 5th August, 1861, and also directed him to refund any excess of duty, "any laws, or parts of laws, to the contrary notwithstanding."

Now, we agree with the learned counsel for the plaintiff, that the mere recital of the title of a former act in a subsequent one, without any words indicating an intent of reënactment or repeal, can have no such effect; and, if the former act was inoperative for any cause, the recital would not cure the defect. But if the former act is referred to in the subsequent one, with words indicating an intent to supply an omission, or to amend the same in any particular, then the former is confirmed—the two acts must be taken together, the former must be read with the amendment incorporated into it; and from the time, at least, of the amendment must be taken, and construed as if the amendment had originally been a part of it. This must necessarily be so, else the amendment itself would be nugatory, and the intent of the Legislature defeated. Hence, if the former act be void and inoperative for any cause, a subsequent amendment virtually, if not expressly, reënacts it; for we must take the former act with the amendment both together, as giving expression to the legislative will.

This is familiar doctrine.

Now, looking at the joint resolution of Jan. 11, 1861, it will be seen that it contains something more than a mere recital of the title of the previous act. Its legal effect and operation is changed by limiting the payment of the increase of duties to teas imported after the passage of the act, and it carries out this change practically, by providing for a reimbursement of the excess of duties paid under it previous to the alteration, and concludes with a clause repealing anything in the former act to the contrary.

Although this joint resolution purports to be in explanation of the previous act, it is in effect an amendment of it, by an alteration of one of its material provisions. But whether viewed as explanatory or as an amendment in the technical sense of the term, it is impossible to say that it was not the intent of the Legislature that the previous act, with the explanation or amendment, should, from that date, operate as a law under which the duties imposed by it were to be collected. If not, why explain or amend it? Why even explain and interpret an act which the Legislature did not intend should operate as a valid law? It seems to me that whether the words of the joint resolution be taken as explanatory or amendatory, they indicate an intent of the Legislature, unmistakably, that the act, thus explained or amended, shall be a law of the land, and if for any cause like the present one, the want of a date, it should be deemed inoperative, the explanation or amendment will render it valid, at least from the date of the passage of the same.

As the duties in question were levied in 1864, after the passage of the joint resolution, upon the grounds above stated, we think the defect in the act, relied upon, is not available to the plaintiff.

Judgment for the defendant.

For plaintiff, Mr. Curtis and Mr. Culver; for defendant, District-Attorney Smith and Mr. Lowrey.

THE SEVEN-THIRTY CASE.

After the above opinion had been read, the District-Attorney rose and stated to the Court, that inasmuch as there was a case now on argument before the Court, it had been agreed that the case of Perry vs. Draper, involving the question of the Seven-Thirty notes, should go over till to-morrow.

Some other cases were also fixed for hearing on different days.

The jury were discharged, by order of the Court, till Thursday.

THE WILEY CASE.

The argument was then continued in the case brought by the United States to forfeit certain stock of the Great Western Railroad Company, as the property of Leroy M. Wiley, under the confiscation laws. The argument of the appeal was commenced on Saturday, Mr. Larocque and Mr. Lord being heard for the appellants, and Mr. Evarts and Mr. Donohoe arguing in behalf of the United States.

SUPREME COURT—TRIAL TERM.

On the weekly Associated Bank statement, this afternoon, there is a further considerable increase on the line of Currency Deposits, while there is a falling off from the export movement of last week in the Specie Balances. The Deposits in the aggregate now stand nine millions higher than a fortnight ago. The Banks have added, the past week, about two and a quarter millions to their Loans and Discounts, in addition to which they have made considerable deposits on 6 ₩ cent. interest in the Treasury Office of the United States.

The week opens with increasing ease in the supply of Money, and some of the Brokers, on first-class collateral, are accommodated at 6 ₩ cent. at call, though 7 ₩ cent. continues the more general rule of the Street. A large amount of the surplus means at Bank, and with private lenders, is going into the Gold-bearing Government Stocks, which continue to advance in price; the 5-20s as high as 107½ ₩ cent. this forenoon, and the 1881s 112½@113 ₩ cent.

The Gold Room opened at about Saturday night's advance—226@227 ₩ cent.—but after the news of the falling back of Gen. THOMAS, the speculators for the rise made a rapid advance to 231@233 ₩ cent., the highest point for a fortnight past. Advantage is also taken of the short interest made last week at 219@220 ₩ cent. on 10-day options, which mature in a few days.

At the Stock Exchange, the Railway list was quite firm in the forenoon, and the Western lines decidedly firm at the Second Board. Among these, the demand is good for Rock Island, Petersburgh, Northwest Preferred and Illinois Central. The miscellaneous shares were higher by 2 ₩ cent. on Quicksilver and steady on Cumberland Coal.

At the close of dealings in the afternoon the following quotations were made as compared with Saturday. The Gold Room fell back to 229½ ₩ cent.

HIGGINS' ORIGIN OF THE BONNET.

As Love through Olympus was tripping one day,
He stole to where Ceres unconsciously lay,
And robbing her sheaf of its choicest gems,
He tastefully plaited their golden stems:
Then borrowing from Flora the prettiest flowers,
Just such as she bears in her sunniest hours;
He wove them with skill through the glittering corn,
Having previously bathed them in dews of the morn;
Over all them he cast a light gossamer cloud.
Their beauties to heighten and not to enshroud;
"And now to complete it," he joyously sings,
"A piece from the Rainbow I'll have for the strings."
'Twas done. He flew quickly to Venus' bed,
And placed his bright work on her beautiful head.
So lovely she looked, all the gods stood amazed;
Some smiled, some envied, but all of them praised.
Then Jove, summoning Mercury swift to his side,
"Come, name me this head-dress," he playfully cried,
Puzzled Mercury paused, then placed his hands on it,
Saying: "By Jupiter's mandate, I call thee a Bonnet.
Thus was it that Olympus first witnessed the birth
Of the loveliest gift e'er bestowed upon earth.
Bonnets since then have become quite a passion,
Been remodeled and changed by capricious Fashion;
Through all their varieties one leads the way,
'Tis Higgins of this city for style and display;
A splendid assortment is always on view
At his Mammoth Establishment, Sixth-avenue,
On the number 'tis well your attention to fix,
Bear well then in mind, it is One-Twenty-Six.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Richmond papers of the 26th are received, but, according to a previously expressed threat, preserve entire silence as to military movements in Georgia. They assert that any news of SHERMAN'S whereabouts would be of incalculable value to us, and they therefore will not give it. Of course, it is not to be supposed for a moment that if the rebels had any news favorable to their side, but that they would out with it in a paroxysm of joy. SHERMAN is making himself felt in the very vitals of the rebellion, and all the sophistry of all the rebels in the Confederacy can't conceal it. SHERMAN will be heard from a great deal sooner than the rebels care for.

The War Department has ordered the formation of a new army corps, to be denominated the First, and to be composed solely of veterans who have seen two years' service. The corps is to be commanded by Maj.-Gen. W. S. HANCOCK, and the Government will pay each recruit a special bounty of three hundred dollars, upon being mustered into service. Each soldier who preserves his arms to the end of his term, will be allowed to retain them as his own.

The steamer Greyhound, Gen. BUTLER'S dispatch steamer, caught fire in the James River, on the 27th inst., and was burned to the water's edge. Gens. BUTLER and SCHENCK, and Admiral PORTER were on board at the time, but escaped without injury. Ten horses belonging to Gen. BUTLER and Staff, and the mail for the Army of the James, were consumed in the flames.

The pirate steamer Florida, while lying at anchor in Hampton Roads, was run into by an army steamer, on the 27th inst., and sunk in nine fathoms of water. The collision was the result of an accident and will probably be investigated.

The Florida's officers, which rumor had sent back to Brazil in the Wachusett, turn up in confinement at Fort Warren, Boston Harbor. That's where the Navy Department intended to send them from the first.

The rebel Admiral BUCHANAN, with two of his Aids, arrived at Fortress Monroe on the 27th, on his way to be exchanged.

The Union General Committee Nominating Convention met last night at the headquarters, No. 654 Broadway, and nominated a full set of charter officers. The list of nominees will be found in another column.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Gold Room advanced to 232¼ per cent., yesterday, on the rumor of the retreat of Gen. THOMAS. The price fell back to 229½ per cent. soon after 3 o'clock. Another large business was done in Government Stocks, at advancing prices, and the Railway market was firmer in the afternoon.

Produce and merchandise attracted more attention yesterday. Breadstuffs, Petroleum, Tallow and Whisky were firmer. Provisions were unsettled; Pork opened decidedly lower, but closed more firmly. The Freight engagements were moderate, consisting chiefly of Provisions and Oil Cake for British ports.

In the neighborhood of Golconda and Metropolis, Ind., there is congregated a daring gang of villains. They have robbed and murdered at will so long that they have become insolent. The people resolved, however, to rid themselves of them, and on Wednesday, Nov. 24, two of the desperadoes were arrested at Metropolis, taken to a tree, and hung without further consideration. Two others were arrested on the following Friday by the citizens of Golconda, and served in the same manner.

Both Boards of the Common Council met yesterday. The Mayor transmitted a message to each board, relative to the recent atrocious incendiary acts, and recommending that authority be given him to offer rewards aggregating a sum of $25,000 for the apprehension and conviction of the incendiaries. By an oversight, no action on the subject was taken by the Aldermen, but the Councilmen adopted a resolution requesting the Mayor to offer the proposed rewards. The Aldermen sent an inquiry to the Corporation Counsel, as to what authority the Eighth-avenue Railroad Company have for charging 10 cents' fare to the upper terminus of their line. The ordinance directing the issue of the balance of the Central Park stock ($234,000) was concurred in. The resolution from the Councilmen, aiming to locate a market on the North River, between Twenty-third and Fortieth streets, was referred. A resolution, reported by the Joint Committee on Parade Ground, was adopted, setting aside Hamilton-square for military uses. The committee say no spot of land can be obtained within the city limits large enough for a division or brigade drill ground, but that this square will answer well for regimental manœuvres. The Councilmen concurred in the resolution to erect a monument on the soldiers' burial plot in Calvary Cemetery, at a cost of $12,000, notwithstanding earnest opposition from Messrs. JAQUES and OPDYKE, who saw in this a precedent for unlimited expenditure for the adornment of the cemetery grounds of private corporations. The Family Aid Ordinance, No. 11, appropriating $500,000, was also concurred in. Both boards adjourned to Thursday, the Aldermen at 1, and the Councilmen at 2 P. M.

The cattle market at Forty-fourth-street, yesterday, was dull, and sales were made in many cases at lower figures than last week on the inferior grades. The best stock brought about the prices current a week ago. The books footed about 3,500 head for Monday. If we include the number not entered on the yard books the supply will probably be about 4,000. The warm weather and the heavy receipts of poultry the past week have operated against trade. Good cattle have sold at about 16c.@18c. ℔ lb. for the estimated dressed weight; medium at 12c.@15½c. A few of the choice of the market brought upward of 18c. Sheep continued to arrive in large numbers and sell at about last week's rates—7½c. ℔ lb., live weight, for good fair quality stock. Swine sold as high a 13c. ℔ lb., live weight, on Saturday. At the opening on Monday it was thought 12½c. would be the outside.

The Montreal Gazette of Saturday has the following item relating to the appointment of a Montreal advocate as a Crown Commissioner, to settle certain difficulties between the United States and Canada:—"We understand that the Hon. JOHN ROSE has been appointed a Commissioner by Her Majesty, on behalf of the Imperial Government under a recent treaty between Great Britain and the United States, by which certain matters in dispute (the San Juan difficulty, we believe, among others) are to be settled by Commissioners, one to be named by each Government, and the umpire, in case of disagreement, by the King of Italy."

Cabinet Changes.

There seems to be a temporary lull in the newspaper speculation about changes in the Cabinet. Ten days ago it was announced, with the utmost positiveness, that Mr. STANTON was at once to give place to Gen. BUTLER, Mr. FESSENDEN to R. J. WALKER, and Mr. SEWARD to C. F. ADAMS. Not a single one of these changes had been proposed or even talked about by the President, or by any of the parties concerned; but this made not the slightest difference. The outside public knew all about it, and the newspapers told all about it—with just as much confidence and assurance as if it had all been true.

These three changes are probably the only three which are not in the least likely to occur. Mr. STANTON'S health has been very seriously impaired by the gigantic labors of his department—labors which probably no other man in the country could have performed without having been utterly crushed months ago. Possibly this fact may render it necessary for him to seek temporary or comparative repose; but nothing else, in our judgment, will vacate his department. His rare talent, his unrivaled executive ability, his familiarity with the enormous and complicated business of the War Department, and his single-hearted devotion to the Government and the country, have made him indispensable in that position, and neither the President nor the country would willingly assent to his leaving it.

Mr. FESSENDEN, though new to the Treasury Department, and, indeed, to executive business of any kind, has so much ability, and has so fully met the expectations of the public in his present position, that his retention of it is universally desired. His preference for a parliamentary field is well known; and if the Legislature of Maine should reelect him to the Senate, he would probably gladly return to it. As a debater, he has had few superiors, and has no equal in Congress, and it is quite natural that he should prefer a field already familiar to him, and where his high honors have been won. But it is understood that Vice-President HAMLIN is also a candidate for that position; and it is not at all unlikely that a recognition of his general claims and qualifications, as well as of the graceful and patriotic manner in which he accepted the adverse decision of the Baltimore Convention, may prompt the people of Maine to bestow it upon him. In that event we have no doubt Mr. FESSENDEN will continue to be the Secretary of the Treasury. And that Mr. SEWARD will retain the State Department, unless for personal reasons he chooses to leave it, we presume is a matter of course.

That changes may occur in other Cabinet posts is more than likely. Attorney-General BATES has already signified his intention to retire, and we presume his example will soon be followed by the Secretary of the Navy. The vacant Chief-Justiceship will probably be filled by an appointment from a Western State, and this may lead to the resignation of the Secretary of the Interior; but so far as we are informed no names have yet been canvassed to fill these possible or probable vacancies. If Secretary WELLES should retire, we are confident the country would rejoice to see his office filled by some one of the Naval heroes who have, by practical service, reflected so much honor on the American flag.

The result of the election has made President LINCOLN so completely master of the situation, and at the same time so thoroughly responsible for the conduct of public affairs, that he is not only able, but bound alike by duty and by interest, to put aside all attempts at the dictation of cliques or of factions, and to act exclusively upon his own convictions of the public good.

LITIGATION IN THE UNITED STATES COURTS—THE REVENUE ACT OF DEC. 24, 1861.—The litigated cases which have been and are occupying the United States Circuit Court in this city, during its present sitting, are of quite uncommon interest and importance.

The Seven-thirty case stands first, as far as amount is concerned, although, as to principles which are to reach beyond the particular case decided, some of the other cases are yet more important.

The case of the forfeiture of the property of LEROY M. WILEY, for aiding the rebellion, the argument of which is just concluded, is one of very great interest, involving, as it does or may, the constitutionality of the Confiscation Acts, the right of rebels to appear before our courts as litigants, and the question whether the stock of a foreign corporation can be attached in this State.

The great clam controversy is also likely to come up again, and bring up for argument the question of the boundary between this State and New-Jersey in the lower Bay.

There has been also an important case just decided by the Court, the decision in which, published this morning, must save the Government from very many suits and great loss. It seems that on Dec. 24, 1861, an act passed through Congress largely increasing the duties on various articles. Among other things, for instance, it imposed an additional duty of five cents a pound on tea, "from and after the date of its passage." It appears that by an inadvertence the approval by the President was dated only Dec. 24, the year being wholly omitted; and the claim was made by an importer of teas that the act was therefore inoperative, and that he was only bound to pay duties according to the act which was previously in force. He therefore sued the Collector to recover the excess of duty.

On June 11, 1862, however, Congress passed a joint resolution in reference to this Act of Dec. 24, 1861, modifying it by exempting from the enhanced duty teas which were in warehouse at the date of the passage of the act, and directing the Secretary of the Treasury to refund the excess of duty which had been exacted on such teas.

This the court holds to be an amendment of the Act of Dec. 24, 1861, so that the two acts must be taken together; and it decides that, whether explanatory or amendatory, it unmistakably indicates the intent of the Legislature, that the act thus amended should be a law of the land, and that the first is therefore made valid from the date of the passage of the joint resolution.

This leaves open the question of the effect of the law as to all articles imported between the passage of the act and that of the joint resolution; but that is not probably a question of very great importance. Any claim for duties overpaid during that time must be small compared with what would have been made for the subsequent period.

It is certainly remarkable that the efficacy of the Act of Dec. 24, 1861, should have been secured by that carelessness or other defect of wording which rendered the passage of the joint resolution necessary. Blunders do not often kill each other in that way.

The Florida—Her Destruction—The British Press on Her Seizure.

A dispatch of Rear-Admiral PORTER to the Navy Department, dated on yesterday, at Fortress Monroe, announces the sinking nine fathoms deep of the rebel privateer Florida, which has been lying in Hampton Roads for a fortnight past, or since she was brought back by the Wachusett from Brazil. The rebel craft, it seems, was run into by one of the innumerable army steamers which are perpetually coursing through the waters in which she lay; but the particulars of her destruction had not been received by Admiral PORTER up to yesterday.

This ends the Florida case, in one sense; but the question is yet as open as ever, as regards the right or wrong of her seizure, and the reparation that may be due to Brazil for the violation of its sovereignty by a United States man-of-war. Our Government still has its duty to perform the same as ever, and the circumstance of the sinking of the rebel privateer will only incidentally affect its action. Thus far we know of no ground of complaint in the premises against our Government; and we do not know that the parties interested have entered any, though the anti-American organs in England have exhibited great haste in violently assailing it, before they knew anything whatever as to the action it would pursue in reference to the unauthorized act of its subordinate.

We had no reason to expect much courtesy of treatment from the English Tory press in such a matter as the Florida case. They have never given us cause to look for generosity, or even justice from them. But when the London Times and Post and Herald and other journals denounce her seizure as a piratical act certain to be approved by our Government, but which all civilized nations ought at once to protest against, it might be supposed that a slight consideration would be given to what has been our national "record" before the world in this matter of neutral rights. We are certain that the history of no modern State presents such an unvarying course of justice and fair-dealing in this particular as our own.

The efforts of our Government and the decisions of our courts protected the rights and property of neutrals when every feeling and prejudice of the people urged them to violate them, and when the course of British precedent was on the side of the arbitrary use of belligerent powers. Our legislation and our judicial decisions have become models and precedents to all nations, for the most liberal interpretation of neutral rights. Most of these decisions, also, were given against an ancient ally, in favor of an old and then detested enemy.

In all our history there is not one action which in violence and in the open disregard of international law, can be placed by the side of the British attack on the Danish fleet in the harbor of Copenhagen in 1801, or the seizure of La Modeste in Genoa in 1794, or the capture of the Essex in Valparaiso, or numerous other similar high-handed procedures of Great Britain against the rights of neutrals.

The only case which can be brought against us is the notorious Trent affair. And in this there were such extenuations as never existed in any similar instance—the very doubt of the neutral privileges in the case, the obnoxious character of the envoys, and the like, which all for a time obscured the popular judgment; and yet in this the prompt and just action of the Government never found a syllable of opposition from the masses, who had expected so different a conclusion.

In the case of the Florida and all the rebel privateers, there are such extenuations for any effort to seize them wherever they can be found, as no other nation ever felt in regard to hostile privateers. They are all flying a flag which we regard as a pirate's flag, covering no nationality, and pledging the crew to no international law and no custom of humanity. They are built, and equipped, and manned, and armed, against the laws of nations, by Englishmen and with English capital. They have no port of their own, and but for the courtesy of neutral Powers, would have no existence on the sea. They make no legitimate captures, and seldom accept battle from any national cruiser, but simply rove over the sea, as a company of fast-riding banditti might gallop over the prairies, burning private property and destroying the accumulated wealth of individuals, while exposing women and children and unarmed civilians to the greatest hardships and exposure. To us, they are simply British pirates who, to protect their infernal robberies, fly a Confederate flag. We ask any candid Englishman whether, supposing Great Britain had during the last winter fallen into war with the German Powers, and the sea had been covered with Yankee privateers built in America, sporting the flag of Hesse-Darmstadt or Bavaria or Saxony, without a single port to which they could carry their prizes, burning and destroying the commerce of England on every sea, while they used neutral ports as their base—whether the British Government would not soon have permitted their cruisers to pursue these pestilent pirates into every port in which they might take shelter.

In the case of the Florida, as we learn from the American Consul's letter, recently published in these columns, there are other extenuations, so strong as to seriously affect the settlement of this case. The Florida, it seems, in connection with the Alabama, has not only made the Brazilian ports a base from which to carry on their piratical enterprises, but it has likewise destroyed American commerce within the neutral Brazilian waters. This certainly puts quite a new face on the matter. Although it does not justify our violation of Brazilian sovereignty, it may modify the form of the reparation we shall be obliged to make.

In any case, there is no good reason, in the past or in the present, to make any one doubt that full justice will be done by our Government in any alleged violation of neutral rights.

A New Army Corps—Hancock's Veterans,

It will be seen that, by authority of the War Department, Gen. HANCOCK is empowered to raise an Army Corps, which is to consist of twenty thousand infantry, to be enlisted for not less than twelve months, from among that class of discharged soldiers who have served two years in the army. The organization of the corps is to commence on the first day of December, and to continue until the first day of the incoming year. There is thus but one full month within which the proposed organization is to be completed.

The inducements to make this corps perfect in numbers and equipment without delay, superabound. There is one of the bravest, most generous, and most trustworthy of our Army Corps Commanders to organize it, to perfect it in discipline, and to lead it—if its services should, by possibility be wanted—to victory in the field. There is a short term of service required of those who join the corps. There is an extra liberal bounty of $300, payable on the recruit being mustered into the service. The officers are to be men who have been in active service for not less than two years. The men who enlist will be credited to the districts in which they or their families reside. And the soldier who retains his arms till the end of his term is to be permitted to retain them afterward as perpetual heir-looms.

Greater inducements could not well be offered even to veteran soldiers. And we look with confidence to the completion of the organization before the dawn of the new year.

A REBEL MISTAKE.—The Richmond papers of the 25th attempt to draw comfort from what they are pleased to term "SHERMAN'S slow progress." They state that up to the 25th he had advanced but seventy-five miles, and had been out fifteen days. The rebels are mistaken. SHERMAN did not leave Atlanta until Nov. 14, and part of his force even not until the 15th. So that, at the outside, he had not been out more than eleven days, up to the 25th. Now, according to rebel reports, SHERMAN'S forces captured Milledgeville and Gordon on the twenty-first, only seven days after he set out from Atlanta; and on the 23d our cavalry occupied Toomsboro, on the Georgia Central Railroad, fifteen miles east of Gordon. The distance from Atlanta to Savannah, via Macon, is 284 miles; the distance from Atlanta to Gordon is 124 miles, but Gen. SHERMAN shortened this distance about fifteen miles by avoiding Macon. Nevertheless, the rebels own reports prove that he had actually moved one hundred and ten miles in seven days, more than fulfilling his marching order, which was that the army should average fifteen miles per day. It has been done, and more too. The rebels will possibly find that SHERMAN'S march is quite rapid enough to suit his purposes and their most ardent wishes.

A CARRIAGE-WAY WANTED.—We very cordially second the demand of a morning cotemporary for some safe way of traversing the city lengthwise, by carriages. Broadway, and the Fifth-avenue, which is substantially its continuation, ought to be reserved permanently for this purpose. The present pavements, moreover, have proved wholly unsuitable and unsafe, and ought to be superseded by something better adapted to the purpose. The suggestion that they should be macadamized or supplied with a road-bed of gravel and asphaltum, is a good one. In Paris these roads have been found dryer, more durable, and in every way better than the ordinary stone pavements; and the experience afforded by the Central Park is very greatly in their favor. The Broadway pavement has become so smooth as to be absolutely unsafe, and the Belgian pavement in Fifth-avenue is but little better. A good smooth thoroughfare from the Battery to the Central Park would be a very great addition to the beauty, comfort and convenience of the city. Railroads are now in operation through all the other streets and avenues of the city, so that it is almost impossible to drive a carriage up or down town with safety. The railroads can spare one channel of transit for carriages. A road of the kind referred to might require somewhat more care than an ordinary pavement, but the additional expense would be slight. Why will not the Common Council investigate this matter and see what can be done?

The Mayor and the Incendiaries.

Mayor GUNTHER, it will be seen, recommends the Common Council to appropriate $25,000 for the conviction, according to due process of law, of the rebel incendiaries. His Honor maintains a consistent record. He finds that Gen. DIX's orders might possibly conflict with the interests of those in whom His Honor has always shown an especial interest. He makes the proviso, therefore, in his message to the Common Council, that the reward shall be contingent upon a conviction according to ordinary process of law. If Gen. DIX, through his military detectives, succeeds in capturing any of the rebel spies engaged in the conspiracy of Friday night, and if these spies should be tried, convicted and hung according to military law, the Mayor's proposed reward shall be void.

There is a fair and commendable consistency in this. When it was proposed, eight weeks ago, to celebrate the national victories in the field by a public demonstration at the expense of the city, Mr. GUNTHER put his veto on the resolution of the Common Council in these clear and unmistakable terms:

> "If I should issue such a proclamation, there are many citizens who would be denounced as disloyal, if through want of opportunity, or inclination, or of means, they failed to comply with the recommendation. I do not see how those who have always held that the Federal Government has nothing to do with the domestic institutions of the States, can be expected to rejoice over victories which, whatever they may be, surely are not Union victories. If those victories were to unite the States, and were a sure harbinger of peace, I would be pleased if I could issue such a proclamation as would induce the poorest citizen to part with his last mite for the purchase of a single tallow candle to celebrate the event."

So careful was Mayor GUNTHER, two months ago, of the feelings of those citizens of New-York, who were liable to be denounced as disloyal, that he could not permit a tallow candle to be lit in honor of the national victories, lest it might offend again their tender proclivities. So regardful is his Honor to-day of the sympathies of these rebel incendiaries, that he seeks to make it a point with the Council that no reward shall be given for their arrest and conviction before a military tribunal. Sixteen hotels and sundry theatres in a city of a million inhabitants, are fired by an organized band of Southern conspirators, and the Chief Magistrate comes forward to see that the habeas corpus and the ordinary civil processes of law shall be put in operation before anybody gets even a sixpence for their arrest and conviction. This is simply the tallow-candle veto over again. Any one can smell it a mile off. The property-owners of New-York, we venture to say, would give ten times the Mayor's reward for the arrest of the incendiaries—and their trial under Gen. DIX's orders—without attaching even a semblance of a condition of the offer. No one but a very ordinary simpleton—we care not what his party or political proclivities might be—could sit down and reckon up the chances of the effect of a summary conviction in such a case as that which now absorbs public attention in this city. It is, as every man of ordinary intelligence sees, either summary conviction, or it is nothing. Without the coöperation of the military authorities, and without the plenary powers of a military tribunal, the prompt and effectual suppression of this incipient insurrection here would be a simple impossibility.

Possibly, the Mayor does not look at the matter in this light. We think it extremely likely that he does not look at it in any other light than as it may seem to affect the fortunes of the rebellion. But as everybody knows who and what the Mayor is, there is, perhaps, no great harm done. When he retires from his present position, it will be some one's duty to take care of him.

REFORM OF CITY GOVERNMENT.—As usual, there is a great deal of talk about city reform. Whether it will lead to any practical results, remains to be seen. We shall probably have the usual crop of new charters in the Legislature this Winter; but, judging from past experience, none of them will contribute much to the purification or increased efficiency of the various departments of the City Government.

Why would it not be wiser to develope and enlarge existing agencies that have worked well, than to insist on remodeling the whole City Government? For example, everybody is satisfied with the practical operation of the Police Department. It has proved a success. The Commission is universally recognized as independent, energetic and upright; and all the duties of that department are performed with as high a degree of regularity and efficiency as can be expected from any such organization. The chances, moreover, are greatly in favor of our always having a respectable and responsible Board of Commissioners—the mode of their appointment, their tenure of office, and the general scope and nature of their responsibility, are such as to give all the guarantees of this which the case allow. Now, why not commit to the Police Department many of the other details of the City Government which are now so imperfectly and unsatisfactorily performed? Why not give them control of street cleaning, and of the sanitary regulations of the city? Their force would have to be increased, of course; but the cost of that increase would be far less than that of the present system, while its efficiency would be infinitely greater. There would be also the incidental advantage of having a larger police force on hand in cases of emergency.

We specify this only to illustrate the direction in which a great deal of very salutary reform might be effected in the conduct of our city affairs, with but little increase of machinery and none of expense. We commend this suggestion to the Citizens' Association.

A MYSTERIOUS COMMISSIONER.—One Mr. JOHN ROSE, of Montreal, we observe, has been appointed a commissioner to settle certain disputes (imaginary, we trust) between the United States and Great Britain. Among other disputes Mr. ROSE is to arrange the "San Juan difficulty!" There is something consoling in the assurance that all these difficulties—whatever they may be—are to be settled by so sweet an individual. The rose by any other name might possibly not smell as sweet. This estimable ROSE, it is said, was chief butler to the Prince of WALES during his Canada sojourn. The appointment may, therefore, be considered as having been made sub rosa. How the "San Juan difficulty" happens to loom up at this particular moment we do not precisely know. Less than a quarter of a century ago it was supposed to have been disposed of, when Gen. SCOTT went to the Pacific to take HARNEY'S place as a diplomatist. But it seems to have cropped out again in some unexpected quarter, and it is not improbable that we shall have to exhaust the resources of statesmanship in holding our own against the blandishments of this new British Commissioner, redolent of the Royal Kitchen, and fragrant with the bouquet of the choice vintage, Sweet Rose! All hail!

☞ It will be seen by advertisement that on the 14th proximo there will be sold by auction, at London, (England,) the remaining copies and copper-plates of those magnificent works of art, "The Musée Français and Royale," together with other valuable works belonging to the estate of the late WM. C. HALL. There will doubtless be orders from this country.

FROM SHERIDAN'S ARMY.

A Reconnoissance—No Force of the Enemy—Mosby Wants a Surgeon—Blazer's Scouts.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MIDDLE MILITARY DIVISION,
Tuesday, Nov. 22, 1864.

Another drenching rain all day yesterday, terminating in a small snow storm late at night. The effort to get up a snow storm was, however, a feeble one, the weather being too cold. To-day it is cold and cloudy, betokening snow.

A reconnoissance commenced by our cavalry yesterday has thus far developed no force of the enemy. There are flying rumors to the effect that EARLY has moved away hastily to intercept SHERMAN, but this can hardly be possible. We shall know, however, by to-morrow, probably, the truth or falsity of this rumor.

Among the recent changes in this Department is the appointment of Capt. DONOHUE, Seventeenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, as Inspector-General upon the Staff of Col. EDWARDS, commanding post at Winchester.

A well-known Surgeon connected with this army, who was recently a prisoner in the hands of MOSBY, was offered by that distinguished guerrilla $1,000 bonus in greenbacks if he would accept the position of Surgeon in his command. The offer was not accepted. MOSBY must be hard pushed for medicine men when he seeks to obtain them from the Union army. MOSBY'S cool manner of transacting business, the capture of the Surgeon referred to above will illustrate. The Surgeon was riding along with a train; he did not know that the train had been attacked, or even that any one had been captured, when a man, who subsequently proved to be MOSBY himself, rode up and told him that a wounded soldier, at the rear of the train, required his attendance. It was not until the wounds had been dressed, and the train had passed on, that MOSBY made himself known.

Another of Capt. BLAZER'S men came in to-day, having escaped from his captors last night. He is wounded in the arm. During the fight MOSBY gave BLAZER'S men no quarter, but afterwards the prisoners were treated well and sent to Richmond. According to this man's statement, Capt. BLAZER and some eighteen men were taken prisoners and twenty or more were killed. This, with the twenty-two shot, that have came in, accounts for the whole party.

At least ten rebel soldiers per day come within our lines and give themselves up.

Reconnoissance by the Cavalry—Early Still in the Valley—List of Casualties.

HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE MILITARY DIVISION,
Wednesday, Nov. 23, 1864.

Gen. TORBERT with his cavalry has just returned from a reconnoissance to the front.

EARLY'S command was overtaken near Woodstock yesterday, when a brisk skirmish took place. The enemy's cavalry was quickly driven in, when their infantry was found drawn up in line of battle. The infantry advancing, caused our cavalry to fall back skirmishing. The enemy followed as far as Mount Jackson. The cavalry again advanced and early this morning Gen. TORBERT received orders to fall back.

KERSHAW'S division of LONGSTREET'S corps, is the only command that has left our front.

Our loss in this reconnoissance will not exceed fifty men. Annexed will be found a list of casualties:

Capt. O'KEEFE, of Gen. SHERIDAN'S staff, who accompanied the expedition, had his horse killed.

The guerrillas still infest our lines. Yesterday a detachment of the Fourth New-York Cavalry, Maj. SCHWARTS, (Gen. SHERIDAN'S body guard) went to the First Division Cavalry Camp to obtain lumber, when four of the party, named NOAH, FARNHAM, ANDREW WOLF, EDWARD P. PIXEL and BIRD were captured. The latter, while attempting to escape, was wounded in one knee. His leg will have to be amputated.

Sergt. WM. W. THOMPSON, Co. M, same regiment, was killed last night by the Eighth Corps picket, while carrying dispatches to Front Royal, accompanied by seventeen men. The affair will be investigated.

A large supply of turkeys and chickens reached camp yesterday from the North, to-morrow being Thanksgiving Day.

THE CASE OF THE FLORIDA.

A statement appeared in one or more to-day's papers, erroneously attributed to the Washington agent and reporter for the Associated Press, that Commander COLLINS has been ordered to return to Bahia, Brazil, with his quasi prize, her officers and crew, and purporting to give the result of the action of the Government upon that subject, with other assumed facts in the same connection. No such telegram originated with the agent and reporter of the Associated Press. But there is the best authority for saying, that all statements to the effect that differences of opinion have arisen in the Cabinet concerning the case of the pirate Florida, or that a decision has been made for or against her restitution, are without foundation. No action of the Government has been taken in the case, and no discussion of it has been held, and the Navy Department authorizes the following statement:

The original order for the Wachusett, upon her arrival at Hampton Roads, was to proceed to Boston for repairs, taking with her the prisoners captured on the Florida, to be consigned to Fort Warren. Before the order reached the vessel, the prisoners had been sent to Point Lookout, and in a day or two were transferred by the army authorities to the Old Capitol. They were immediately ordered back to Point Lookout, to be returned to the Wachusett, which at once sailed fo Boston, arriving there on Friday last. The prisoners are doubtless ere this in Fort Warren.

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The repetition of "Don Sebastian" last evening was witnessed by a brilliant and crowded house. Many of those present had evidently attended the first performance, and the slight familiarity with the music thus occasioned led naturally to warmer demonstrations of pleasure than were indulged in on Friday. The best morceaux were received with great satisfaction, and notwithstanding the length of the opera, numerous encores had to be accepted by the artists. We are persuaded that the work will become exceedingly popular with our public. Less trivial than the majority of Italian operas, it yet possesses the melodic saliences of the school to which it belongs, and is important otherwise for many happy combinations and a rare and acceptable largeness of style. As a spectacular work, it is probably the best we have ever had placed upon the New-York stage. The ingenuity of M. SCRIBE has provided an excellent libretto. Anyone who reads it must feel interested in the action and the dénouement. The first and second acts are naturally of a bustling and preparatory character. We have the pageant of the King's departure for the war, and the illustration of the calamity that overtakes him in Africa. The music is mainly of the kind that depicts the vehemencies of the masses. In the third and subsequent acts DONIZETTI deals with acuter and more refined emotions. Nothing can be more felicitous than the passages between Camoens and the King. The music of Zaida is most happily conceived and becomes more intense and appealing to the last duet, where it culminates superbly. There are a dozen numbers that deserve to be memorable—most of them massive, striking and pleasing. The instrumentation is not at all overwrought. It is fuller than in other of DONIZETTI's operas; but it is not the fullness of dull labor, but the luxuriance of a fine fancy. The composer wrote "Don Sebastian," the longest of his works, in two months. It was played at the French Academy, whe[illegible] o were produced "Il Polluto" and "I Martire"

The singers were in excellent voice, and gave much spirit to a performance which was generally enjoyed. Signora ZUCCHI sang with unusual dramatic effect. Signor BELLINI has seldom been heard to such advantage, and the same may be said, in a less degree, of Signor MASSIMILIANI and Signor SUSINI The choruses were very fine, and the orchestra all that could be desired.

WINTER GARDEN.—Friday night was a night of triumph for the Winter Garden. The occasion the great Booth benefit for the Shakespeare Statue in the Central Park. Long before the hour of opening an eager mass might have been seen swaying round its doors, and during the day prices reached a fabulous height—so much as one hundred dollars being offered for a box, and from ten to twenty dollars for a single seat. It was next to impossible, however, to obtain one; nearly all, through the excellent arrangement made, having been secured by bona fide holders, and very few falling into the grasp of speculators. As the hour for commencing the performance approached, it was impossible to look round the densely crowded house without feeling that the audience even in itself was an attraction. Occupying one side of the orchestra, might have been seen gathered nearly all our leading painters and sculptors, who attended in a body, and in every portion of the house on which the eye fell, might be recognized some face distinguished in the field of literature or art. Many were, doubtless, attracted by so unusual a spectacle as the appearance in the same piece of the three sons—themselves so distinguished of so distinguished a father as the great JUNIUS BRUTUS BOOTH; but many were also, we rejoice to think, brought there by a desire to do honor to the object for which the performance was given, and it was in every sense gratifying to receive so cheering a confirmation of the faith in the enduring power of him who "was not for a day, but for all time."

It is not usual to criticise performances on such occasions. Were it so, the critic would have, in this instance, a most agreeable task. It was in every respect admirable, and worthy of the occasion. Without breach of this honored custom, we may, however, remark that the individual characteristic of Mr. JUNIUS BOOTH, as exhibited in the performance of last night, seemed to us a careful conception and vigorous execution; that of Mr. EDWIN BOOTH, a certain classic beauty and scholarly refinement which mark all his impersonations, and that of Mr. JOHN W. BOOTH, an élan and fire which at times fairly electrifies the audience and whirls them along with him. They were received with an unbounded enthusiasm, which accompanied them through the piece, and found expression in repeated tumultuous calls before the curtain. Indeed, as they entered together, at the opening of the piece, it would be difficult to look on three finer types of physical and intellectual perfection, and Mrs. BOOTH, who was present in a private box, to witness the performance of her sons, might well be pardoned for exclaiming, with the mother of the Gracchi: "These are my jewels." This benefit has not been given without some sacrifice, but we are happy to find we have some who are prepared to make it in such a cause, and are glad to think that Mr. EDWIN BOOTH, who has labored with such unwearied exertion for the object of last night's performance, Messrs. JUNIUS BRUTUS BOOTH and JOHN WILKES BOOTH, who came at pecuniary loss, and considerable inconvenience, from other and distant engagements, to give their services toward it, and Mr. STUART, who has twice devoted the Winter Garden to it, will find some compensation in such a scene of triumph as that of last night. The receipts of the house were a little over $4,000.

THE INCENDIARY FIRES.

Two more Arrests—Order from Admiral Paulding—Message from the Mayor—Rebel Torpedoes.

TWO MORE MEN IN CUSTODY.

JOHN YOUNG, Chief of the Detective force, and Detectives BENNETT and MCDOUGALL, are making very great exertions, and are sparing no pains or expense to discover and bring to merited punishment the persons who last Friday night, attempted to destroy this by fire. In addition to the arrests previously reported, Chief YOUNG and his officers yesterday succeeded in apprehending two suspicious Southern refugees, who; since their arrival in the city some months ago, have been leading an idle and dissolated life. From motives of public policy, we are requested not to publish at present the names of the prisoners, nor disclose the evidence which the officers have in their possession connecting these men with the act of incendiarism in vuestion. It is understood that Mayor GUNTHER has offered a reward of $25,000 for the apprehension and conviction of the guilty persons.

ORDER FROM ADMIRAL PAULDING.

Admiral PAULDING, commanding at the Brooklyn Navy-yard, has issued the following order:

NAVY-YARD, NEW-YORK, Nov. 26.

Hereafter no visitors will be permitted to enter the yard without a pass from the Commandant or Executive Officer of the yard, excepting when visiting toe officers' families.

After muster at noon and in the morning, all stragglers or unemployed people about the yard will be taken in charge by the watchman, and, under the direction of the Captain of the watch, placed in confinement or turned out of the yard. If any such should prove to be men employed in the yard, they will be taken to the mustering office, and their names recorded for dismissal.

Hereafter the South gate will be closed, and no person permitted to pass in or out of the yard except at the main gate at York street.

Any person who may enter the yard with the workmen, or in any manner by stealth, shall be confined in the cells, and reported to the executive officer.

No person who may come to the Navy-yard with supplies of any kind will be permitted to enter the yard without leave from the proper authority, but will remain on board their vessels or with their teams, and conform strictly to the rules prescribed for them.

All persons who may be found sleeping or lounging (where they have no business) in the yard, will be arrested and placed in the cells for examination.

The Executive Officer will be pleased to provide a special police of vigilant and careful men, to carry out the order. This police will be charged with the further duty of reporting to the Executive Officer all persons employed in the yard who may be idle or negligent in the performance of the labors upon which they may be employed; and a failure to carry out this order, or in any manner to neglect the interest of the Government, will involve immediate dismissal.

Recruits will, as usual, be passed to the receiving-ships. H. PAULDING, Commandant.

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR.

At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen held yesterday afternoon, the following communication was received from the Mayor:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, Nov. 28, 1864.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: There being no authority of law empowering the Mayor to offer an adequate reward for the detection and punishment of the guilty parties who have recently attempted to fire several of the large hotels of this city, I feel it my duty to bring the case to the consideration of your Honorable Body. The Common Council will, I am sure, do all in its power to give efficiency to the administration of the laws, and to bring to justice the prime movers of this incendiarism. I would respectfully recommend that your Honorable Body would authorize the offering of rewards, amounting in the aggregate to $25,000, for the arrest and conviction by due process of law of the persons guilty of these crimes.

And I do earnestly recommend that the Common Council and the people of this city labor diligently to discover the truth, and the whole truth of the matter, and exert their influence to protect the lives and property of our citizens, and that the investigation of these offences be not stifled by any plausible pretext; but that the course of justice be maintained inviolate, and that a fair and impartial trial, according to the Constitution of this State, the laws and peace of which have been broken, shall vindicate both, for it is thus alone that good order can be secured, wicked men punished, and public liberty maintained. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

The Mayor's communication was referred to the Committee on Ordinance.

A man named CAMPBELL, of No. 87 Crosby-street, carried to the headquarters of Gen. DIX yesterday morning, two boxes contning curious looking cylinders. Officers who examined the cylinders gave the opinion that they were intended for torpedoes. CAMPBELL, the carpenter, says they were taken to his shop in June, by a stranger, who asked him to make boxes for them. Not knowing what the cylinders were, he made the boxes, and in them he packed the cylinders, which were never called for. The carpenter did not see the man who brought these cylinders. A person who worked in the shop took the order for the boxes. CAMPBELL adds, from description, that "the stranger was not a laboring man nor a New-Yorker." In stature he was tall, his hair was black, and he wore summer clothing. The particular use for which the torpedoes were intended do not appear.

Meeting of the Hotel-keepers—Reward of Twenty Thousand Dollars Offered.

H. L. POWERS, of Powers' Hotel, Secretary.

The Public Safety.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

During the riot in July, 1863, the citizens in several of the Wards of the city organized "Home Guards," under a recommendation of the Governor and Mayor. Some of them still continue in existence and are "on guard."

In view of the recent fiendish attempt to fire our city, would it not be advisable to form similar associations throughout the city, in small bodies—say by blocks—to concentrate into larger bodies whenever required.

I send a copy of the articles of association of one of these bodies that its general plan may be seen. A copy was shown some few months ago to a general officer, who had served gallantly in the present war, but the state of his health obliged him to resign. He said, "That is capital; I will not sleep until such an organization is formed in my neighborhood." The next day he reported that one had been formed.

With the city belted with such organizations we should have little occasion to fear rioters or incendiaries.

EMANCIPATION IN MARYLAND.

Celebration at Cooper Institute.

A large and highly respectable meeting of our colored citizens was held last evening in the hall of the Cooper Institute, for the purpose of celebrating the passing of emancipation in Maryland. On the platform were seated many of the sons and daughters of Maryland, whose presence gave an additional interest to the evening's proceedings. A circle of young ladies attired in white emblematical of the States that endured and re-instated Mr. LINCOLN, supporting the Goddess of Liberty, were also seated on the platform presenting an annuated scene.

Precisely at 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Mr. J. P. GINNIS, who nominated for chairman, JOHN PETERSON, Esq., Principal of Colored School No. 1. Mr. PETERSON in taking the chair expressed regret that anything should have occurred that prevented the meeting to-night from being overflowing. He said that an idea had got abroad that a ball would take place at the end of the meeting, which deterred many from coming forward. However, he was glad to see such a harmonious meeting. He wished the proceeds of this meeting to be given equally to these objects: First, the sick and wounded soldiers. Second, the Freedmen and their children and third, the Anglo-African. The Chairman then expressed his gratification that Maryland was free, and hoped that God would bless ABRAHAM LINCOLN, Maryland and the friends of freedom everywhere. [Great applause.]

Rev. SINGLETON T. JONES, pastor of Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, then offered up prayer at the conclusion of which a hymn was sung by the choir, when the chairman introduced as the first speaker, Rev. HENRY GARNETT, formerly of Shiloh Chapel, New-York, now of Washington. Mr. GARNETT was received with applause, and addressed the audience in an eloquent and telling speech. He gave a thrilling account of the sufferings endured by his parents and himself, in making their escape from Maryland to New-York, when the former State was under the rule of the slave-driver. Mr. G., in a forcible manner, pointed out to the meeting the advantages that Maryland would reap from emancipation, and concluded by requesting his colored friends to stand together in unity. [Great applause.]

Several other speakers followed Mr. GARNETT, when the meeting adjourned.

The Quack Bill-Posters.

NEW-YORK, Saturday, Nov. 26, 1864.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I noticed in your paper, a day or two since, an article in reference to the vandalism exhibited by venders of nostrums, liquors, &c., in defacing rocks, trees and fences, all over the country, with their advertisements, and I concur heartily with the writer, and so I think will every lover of nature, as exhibited in her beauty and magnificence in our grand lake, mountain and river scenery. This morning I find a circular among my letters, in which an advertising agent coolly proposes to go on defacing the country in the most systematic manner, carrying with him "a corps of bill-posters, painters, &c., to put advertisements on the prominent rocks, bridges and fences," which he designates as "the most novel as well as the cheapest way of advertising." I would like to know whether there is no law to prevent such mutilation of the landscape, and if not, would suggest that the quicker a law to punish such acts is passed by the Legislature the better for the community. In the meantime, I advise all proprietors of lands and property so defaced, to hold the perpetrators to a strict accountability for the damage done to their premises. J. M. I.

Army Surgeons.

CHESAPEAKE HOSPITAL, FORTRESS MONROE, Va., Wednesday, Nov. 23, 1864.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I have just read the interesting letter of your army correspondent, GEO. F. WILLIAMS, in which he speaks of the ways in which medical officers are "depreciated and harrassed."

Will you permit me to add one word in regard to that large class of medical men in the service known as Contract Surgeons, or, in official terms, "Acting Assistant Surgeons?" They receive $100 per month when "on duty" at a hospital; if in the field, $113 83. From this sum they pay, if in this institution, one dollar a day for board. The Government retains $2 50 as tax on every month's pay.

Now, if a physician has a family to care for at home, and if he relies upon his profession for his support, it is evident that he cannot afford to serve the nation a great while at that rate of compensation.

The writer has sometimes examined and prescribed for one hundred patients in a day, with the satisfaction of knowing that he is to receive about three cents for each patient.

If the Government desires to procure and retain the services of intelligent physicians in the military hospitals, it must grant them a reasonable compensation.

I must not omit to state that in addition to his monthly pay, the contract Surgeon has the privilege of purchasing and wearing the uniform of a Lieutenant, with the gratification of having himself called, by strangers, "Lieutenant," (a title which at first he does not recognize as belonging to him,) and the further privilege of writing after his name on official papers. A. A. SURGEON, N. S. A.

The Liability of Estates under the Income Tax.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF INTERNAL REVENUE, WASHINGTON, Nov. 22, 1864.

SIR: Your letter of Nov. 15, inquiring as to the liability of the estate of R. CHRISTOPHER for the Special Income Tax upon the income of said CHRISTOPHER for 1863, is received.

I reply, that the ruling of this office is that the Special Income Tax should not be assessed upon the income of persons who died previous to July 4, 1864. Therefore, as R. CHRISTOPHER died in March, 1864 it appears that your Assessor has wrongfully assessed the Special Income Tax upon his income.

Very respectfully,
E. A. ROLLINS, Deputy Commissioner.

The President Petroleum Company, of PRESIDENT, VENANGO COUNTY, PENN.—The advertisement of complete organization is published on another page, and fully explains the plan of the corporation. It will be seen that the officers and directors are of excellent commercial standing and influence. Very liberal advantages are offered to subscribers, and the territory of the company is so ample that there is a very fair prospect of immense returns to the stockholders. It appears that this company has secured on the Alleghany River and favorite tributaries an oil-bearing territory of over ten and a half miles in extent. Immediately adjoining the lands of the President Company, several successful wells have been sunk, and there is strong testimony in favor of a great success for this enterprise It is intended to form two more companies out of the territory secured by the "President," which will, of course, inure to the benefit of the original stockholders. The subscription agents in New-York, Messrs, L. H. SIMPSON & CO., No. 64 Cedar-st., supply all information as to details that may be desired by subscribers. $100 now paid in secures $500 of the original stock.

CHRISTIAN BALLADS,
BY REV. A. CLEVELAND COXE, D. D.,
Illustrated with Original Designs,
By JOHN A. HOWS.
1 vol. 8vo. 235 pages. Printed on Tinted Paper. 1 vol. Cloth, gilt, $6. Morocco, $9. Morocco Extra, $10.
Extract from the Author's Preface.
"With a sincere gratitude to his Christian brethren, and to his publishers in England and America, he desires to acknowledge the singular and entirely unexpected success which the little book has enjoyed. It has brought him kindly greetings and pleasant letters from the most distant and from some of the most obscure portions of the earth. It has gained him some of the most enviable of friendships. In foreign travel it has opened his way to cottages and to castles; he found it on the shelves of Eton boys and in the rooms of grave fellows of the universities. In Ireland he was presented with a curious series of imitations of Dreamland, some grave and some comical; and to Scotland and Wales he owes some of his happiest recollections in incidents connected with the circulation of the Ballads, in several forms. To Count Tasco, the eminent poet and patriot of Northern Italy, he is indebted for the introduction of several of them to his countrymen, in spirited translations; and the Comte de Montalembert has unwittingly connected a stanza from one of them with a book which will be ever memorable in the history of the French Empire."

MEDICAL.

A BLESSING TO EVERY WOMAN.
The only specific known to be always safe, healthy and certain for removing obstructions or irregularities of nature, from whatever cause, and bring on the monthly sickness, is the wonderful and infallible
PORTUGUESE FEMALE MONTHLY PILLS.
Price $3 and $5. Sold by Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, sole agent for the United States, office No. 129 Liberty-st., or sent by return mail in letter envelopes.

ADDRESSED TO INVALIDS SUFFERING FROM SCROFULA, ULCERS, ERUPTIONS, RHEUMATISM, &c.—To attempt a description of my suffering from the terrible agonies of a most extensive and destructive ulceration, covering the greater portion of my person, throat, &c., the terrible appearance and offensiveness would be impossible. While my money lasted I left nothing undone, but poverty compelled me to call in a dispensary physician, who, horrified at my appearance, consoled me that I would be consigned to Potter's Field in a few days. He returned shortly with Dr. Heine. This gentleman being apparently more used to such sights, pronounced me curable. He not only prescribed his medicines, but also furnished me with other comforts until I was perfectly cured. I would also state that all physicians who had previously attended me considered it impossible for me to recover. Dr. Heine's office is at No. 54 East 11th-st., between 2d and 3d avs.
JOHN HOLMES.
Sworn before me, G. G. TAYLOR, Commissioner of Deeds.
I saw JOHN HOLMES and know the above to be true.
W. HUBBARD, M. D., Pres. of Bowery Ins. Co.
Dr. Heine guarantees a perfect and lasting cure. He refers to hundreds that have been cured twenty-five years ago. His treatment is positively without fail in all scrofulous, hereditary and all other chronic diseases. Instead of spending months of misery under the care of other physicians, or in hospitals, or swallowing pounds of iodid potas, mercury, syrups, &c., you can be cured in a very short time by Dr. Heine's new treatment. Office No. 54 East 11th-st., between 2d and 3d avs. His practice in recently-contracted diseases as well as in constitutional affections is original, excelling Ricord or any other, and is acknowledged by every scientific man to be the only reliable system, always guaranteeing a radical cure.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 61 Franklin-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 61 Franklin-st. Call, send, or write.

CAUTION TO MARRIED AND SINGLE LADIES.—DR. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women, deems it his duty to caution ladies, that his scientific mode of treatment in all cases of irregularity or suppression, is the only one at once healthy and certain in all cases, however complicated. He is consulted with the strictest confidence.
DR. A. M. MAURICEAU is the author of "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION," strictly intended for those whose health and circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family; a perusal of which will convince any lady of his thorough knowledge of her complaints. Every lady who has it is secure from danger and imposition. Price $1. Sold at No. 1 Vesey-st., No. 18 Ann-st.; also, at his office, No. 129 Liberty-st., or sent by mail, by addressing Box No. 1,224 New-York City.

EVENINGS WITH SHAKESPEARE, AT THE WINTER GARDEN.
EDWIN BOOTH AS HAMLET.

Mr. Stuart begs to announce that on this evening, and every evening until further notice, Mr. Edwin Booth will appear in his great role of Hamlet, a character in which he is universally acknowledged, in the language of the Daily TIMES "to have no living equal." This play is the first of a series of representations to be produced under Mr. Booth's immediate direction, in which the effort, that has already found such cheering sympathy, will be continued to place each play upon the stage in a style combining splendor of production with strict historical correctness. Hamlet has been in active preparation for upward of three months, under the stage management of Mr. J. G. Hanly, and no expense or labor has been spared in the endeavor, by a more strictly pictorial arrangement of the ordinary stage resources, and by the fidelity, appropriateness and superior execution of the several means of scenic illusion to carry out the spirit of the play in the most minute details, and thus advance the drama as a branch of national literature and art.

The scenery, music, costumes, properties and machinery are entirely new, and to give a perfect completeness to the cast, engagements have been made with one of the most gifted actresses who ever graced the stage; MR. EDWIN VARREY,
MRS. J. W. WALLACK, JR.,
MR. CHARLES KEMBLE MASON,
and the eminent comedian,
MR. THOMAS PLACIDE,
who will appear each evening in conjunction with Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau, Chester, Messrs. G. H. Andrews, C. Walcot, J. G. Hanley, E. Eberle, C. W. Chester, O. S. Fawcett, Duell, Burroughs, Burgess, &c.

It is most gratifying and stimulating to the management to find such confirmation of the faith in the enduring power of Shakespeare's works, and such cheering evidence that no toil or expenditure devoted to perfection in their production will ever be unappreciated in New-York, as have been furnished by the enthusiasm with which this play has been received during the past two nights by the most crowded and brilliant audiences ever gathered in this Theatre, as also in the most hearty encouragement and approbation extended by the press. Mr. Stuart desires to invite attention to the following remarkable notice from the New-York Herald:

SHAKESPEARE AT WINTER GARDEN.

Mr Edwin Booth began an engagement at this theatre on Saturday night, in the part of Hamlet. The house was a very full one and the performance a decided success. Great pains had been taken over this production of the wonderful tragedy, and those pains have been so well bestowed that the play, as presented on Saturday night, in respect to scenery, properties, and dresses, would take very high rank merely as a spectacle. Every scene is new, well conceived and well painted. Several of the scenes are masterpieces of scenic art. This is particularly true of the platform scene—the first in the play—and of the moonlight scene, with the palace in the distance—the fourth scene in the first act. All the dresses, all the properties; indeed everything was new. Such a presentation alone ought to make this production a great success; but in addition to this there was the best general performance of the several parts that we have ever seen. Mrs. Wallack performed the part of the Queen with excellent discretion; the King was good. Polonius was good, the Ghost was good; Laertes, Horatio, Ophelia, all were good; the players were good, and the Gravedigger was admirable.

Mr Booth, as if stimulated by such accessories, surpassed his former success in the character of Hamlet. He gave to the very life the picture of a reflective, sensitive, gentle, generous nature, tormented, borne down and made miserable by an occasion and by requisitions to which it is not equal. Charles Lamb started the notion that Shakespere's plays were better in the closet than on the stage; but the notion is a false one. It is the notion of a man who has never seen the parts filled by competent actors. Shakespeare's plays were written for the stage by a man familiar with the theatre. In what is written for the stage under such circumstances, so much is left to be represented by the action, diction, manner, &c., that the sense inevitably halts without these. It would, perhaps, not be too much to say that only an actor, and one deep in his business, too, can properly understand the drift and purpose of some scenes in a play like Hamlet, and it is certainly true that an actor is a necessary medium between the author and the world. It is for this reason that the performance of Hamlet by Mr. Booth is a continual elucidation of Shakespeare. There are no inconsistencies, no mysteries, no knotty or incomprehensible points in the part of Hamlet as Mr. Booth plays it. We may burn our hundred volumes of commentaries if we will go often enough to the Winter Garden. All is as clear as daylight. The whole history is laid out; we have every step clearly defined of the intellectual processes that the Prince passes through. We see a young, accomplished, hitherto gay, but now sombre gentleman, grieved deeply by the loss of his father, and by an unpleasant circumstance in his family, that leaves him in doubt whether he ought to grieve more for the father who is lost or for the mother who is left. He learns the dreadful secret of his father's death, and, in accordance with the Scandinavian idea that revenge is a pious duty, he swears to take it. He is urged to this act by the ghost, and feels that he is unequal to it even as the ghost goes. To determine such a course of action is easy under the strange circumstances of a ghostly visitation; but in the quiet, commonplace air of the next day it seems another matter to kill a king who urges on one every courtesy, and who is charged with crime only by the word of a supernatural visitant, who may be a devil in disguise. Hamlet, therefore, hesitates, naturally; yet he reproaches himself for this very hesitation "as a muddy-mettled rascal"—"a dreamer." So much and such unusual cogitation changes him, and he is noticed keenly. He fears that his thoughts will be guessed at by the guilty, and to cover them he feigns insanity. He is made miserable by his thoughts, and has the constant wish that his own death would take him out of all this trouble. He thinks of suicide. Before he sheds the blood of the supposed murderer, he will have better evidence of the murder than the ghost's word, and he tries the play. It confirms the story, and, wrought to action by it, he strikes a blow that it believes will kill the murderer, but it only reaches the old dotard Polonius. He relapses into his former inaction and weakness; he dreams again, and hesitates so long and acts so strangely in the meantime that the fear which had caused him to feign insanity is realized—he is suspected of a dangerous design, and his murder is plotted. The consciousness that he has become the victim of this plot brings out his latent energy, and he finally strikes the fatal blow. Such is the simple delineation of his part as given by Mr. Booth—one of the noblest pieces of dramatic art ever seen in any land or any age. To see it inevitably excites the wonder that his part should have been so misunderstood by so many able writers, and especially that very judgment should have been visited on Hamlet against which he so gently protests with his last breath. Hamlet, as thus excellently rendered, will be performed to-night.

NOTICE.—From this date doors will be opened at 6¾, and performances commence at 7½ precisely. Ladies and gentlemen desiring to preserve a memento of the great Booth benefit, can have a bill of the evening printed on satin, at cost price, by leaving their names at the Box-office.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—ITALIAN OPERA
Director......MAX MARETZEK.
SPECIAL NOTICE.—The performance, in consequence of its length, will COMMENCE AT HALF-PAST SEVEN PRECISELY. Doors open at 6¾.
TO-NIGHT—DON SEBASTIAN.
OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.
"Mr. Maretzek has embarked a moderate fortune in the production of this great work of Donizetti, and he deserves to be sustained in his laudable effort to rival the grand opera of Europe. If there be any fault in the way Don Sebastian is presented at the Academy, it is that it is too gorgeous. There is so much splendid pageantry, brilliancy of costume and rapid succession of dramatic effect, combined with music of rare excellence, that the mind becomes somewhat bewildered between the conflict of sight and sound. This is something, however, to which the public will become accustomed after hearing the opera a few times."—New-York Herald.
"It remains only to say that the performance was a success—decorous as such things are apt to be on a first night—but unequivocally a success. As the opera progressed, and the audience ceased to be frightened of its own judgment, the applause became general and hearty. The funeral procession was received with a burst of thorough appreciation, which, as a spectacle is fully merited. As a rule, encores were avoided, but an exception had to be made in favor of the septette in the fourth act, which was repeated; and the singers subsequently called before the curtain."—Daily Times.
"We are inclined to regard the success of 'Sebastian' on Friday evening as being more positive than was that of 'Faust,' when originally played here a year ago."—World.
The artists engaged in the representation exerted themselves handsomely and well; and the liberal intentions of the management in respect of scenic display, costumes, &c., were most abundantly and profusely manifested. The entire mise en scene was admirable. The details of stage effect were judiciously and impressively arranged. The production was in all ways thoroughly creditable to Mr. Maretzek's enterprise.—Tribune.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.

The New Torpedo-boat "Stromboli"—Details of Her Experimental Trial Trip—Her Departure from Northern Waters—A Complete History of the Vessel, &c.

Owing to a desire expressed by the authorities we have refrained from publishing anything in relation to the movements of the Stromboli for the past few days, but as the vessel is now many miles from here, and beyond the reach of traitors and the eyes of the curious public, it will do no harm to give the following facts in relation to her trial trip and departure.—[REPORTER.]

On Friday, the 25th inst., the Stromboli made an experimental trial trip to thoroughly test all of her machinery, and on Saturday she took her departure from these waters for the purpose of making her début upon the stage of active operations, and, we may be permitted to say, to fully demonstrate the power, efficiency and destructiveness of the new system of naval warfare. Before we proceed to describe the trial trip, let us first give a brief outline of the history of the vessel, and even go back to the inception of the idea. Several years ago WM. W. W. WOOD, the present senior Chief Engineer of the United States Navy, conceived the idea of using the submarine torpedo in a manner not previously experimented upon or known. As time passed, the simplicity and perfect working of his plans became so patent that he felt satisfied in his own mind that it would perform the work required beyond a doubt. Less than two years ago the subject was casually brought to the notice of Admiral GREGORY, who immediately urged upon the Navy Department the appointment of a board of examiners to inquire into the merits of the invention and report upon the same. This board, composed of some of the most practical officers in the service, gave the subject a very careful examination, and unanimously reported in its favor, recommending the construction of a vessel to fully demonstrate the idea. The Navy Department, alive to the great importance of the system, immediately ordered the construction of what is now the Stromboli.

First Assistant-Engineer JOHN L. LACY, a young officer, who had also been investigating the subject of torpedo warfare, was selected to superintend the construction of the vessel and her machinery. As it was necessary to keep the matter quiet and beyond the inquisitive eye of traitors and foreign emissaries, the hull was built at Fair Haven, Conn., the engines at Mystic, Conn., and the torpedo machinery at Schenectady, N. Y. Mr. SAMUEL H. POST, a young and skillful naval architect, was selected to build the hull, the Reliance Machine Company the propelling engines, and CLUTE BROTHERS the torpedo machinery, and BENJAMIN & ROOT the torpedo engine, and in this way the work was distributed, so that it was not easy for the inquisitive to put all the parts together and be much the wiser. After she was launched she was towed to Mystic, and there received her boiler and engines. From thence she came over to Messrs. Secor's yard at Jersey City, where she received her deck plating, pilot-house and her final completion. Such is the brief history of the inception and production of the first torpedo boat of the United States Navy—designed, built and sailed by native-born citizens.

THE FIRST EXPERIMENTAL TRIAL TRIP.

On Friday, the 25th inst., the little Stromboli made her experimental trial trip to test her propulsive and torpedo engines. She left the wharf at the Secor yard about 11 o'clock A. M., and under the pilotage of Capt. JOHN MCGINN, proceeded up the Hudson River some distance, making an average speed of nine knots per hour, and steering beautifully from on top of the pilot-house as well as from below decks. After some tests of the propulsive machinery, it was decided to fire a "wood torpedo," of the same pattern as was furnished to, and used with such success by Lieut. CUSHING in the destruction of the rebel ram Albemarle.

TEST OF THE FIFTY-POUNDER TORPEDO.

This torpedo was charged with only 48 pounds of powder, and was placed in the basket, run out, detached, and when at a given point, about one foot below the surface of the water, it was exploded, less than two and a half minutes being consumed in the whole operation. The explosion and the peculiar appearance of the column of water thrown up by the torpedo can be but illy described with a pen. Instantaneous photography might have done it, but no painter could have depicted the scene with justice. The water was thrown up about 180 feet in a perpendicular column, which measured about ten feet in diameter. Branching off from the main column were thick jets of heavy spray, or rather broad sheets of snowy white water, which the breeze bore back upon the deck of the vessel. Around this huge column of water and mingling with the jets, the whitish fantastic clouds of powder-smoke circled, making a beautiful picture, ever changing and passing away in a brief space of time. The torpedo, when exploded, was only 15 feet distant from the bow of the vessel, and the shock as felt on board was very slight indeed. Everyone was charmed with the experiment.

TRIAL OF THE SIXTY-POUNDER TORPEDO.

It was now decided to try a torpedo placed twenty feet below the surface of the water, and about the same distance from the bow of the vessel; this torpedo contained sixty pounds of powder, and was placed in position as in the former experiment. It was exploded by BEARDSLEY's magnetic-electro machines, a beautiful specimen of art. The explosion at this time produced different results, and still more interesting. The water was thirty feet deep, and the torpedo at the instant of explosion was ten feet from the bed of the river, consequently it was a trifle longer before the tremendous result made itself manifest. When it did come it was awfully grand. A black cone, surmounting a blacker column, arose from the surface, and quickly mounted aloft, at least three score feet, being twenty feet in diameter, and thick with mud. The muddy jets did not leave the column quite as soon as in the former experiment, but the white smoke curling around the dark centre column made a picture novel, and at the same time one which a reflecting mind could not fail to be awed with. It presented in unmistakable evidence the power which the machine possessed for harm, and which at times lying dormant could be roused in an incalculable space of time, and let loose for destruction of life and property. The shock of this torpedo was felt over a space of about 150 yards in diameter. It lifted, or felt as if it did, the bow of the vessel about nine inches, but producing no unpleasant sensation. Space prevents us from going into the details of the sensations experienced while witnessing these experiments. We are satisfied that this vessel, for destructive purposes, has no equal in the world. No iron-clad can withstand its power. It is perfectly safe to operate in, and the nearer she approaches an enemy, the safer she becomes, while every foot nearer she approaches her victim only hastens the time of her certain destruction. The experiments being over, the Stromboli and her consort, picket-boat No. 6, steamed back to their stations.

DEPARTURE OF THE STROMBOLI.

Saturday, 26th inst., was the time announced for her departure, and by 2 o'clock everything was in readiness save a few trifling details. The crew was selected from on board of the Vermont, and so great was the desire to go in her manifested that "all hands and the crew" volunteered, and earnestly entreated to go in the torpedo-boat. Seven men were selected, and with bag and hammock were soon on board of picket-boat No 6, in charge of Engineer GRIFFIN, and en route for Jersey City. On arriving, the crew were transferred to the Stromboli, and a prouder set of fellows could not be found for miles around. More than one volunteer presented himself at the dock, being anxious to go in her. One young lad, named EDWIN BOOTH, pressed so hard, that he was permitted to go. The joy and happiness depicted on the face of this lad when he received permission was of a character seldom seen. We shall hear of that boy one of these days.

As the public (designedly) had not been notified of the time or place of departure, only a few persons were present. Among this few our reporter noticed Capt. BOGGS, Chief Engineer WOOD, W. H. WEBB, Engineer HALL, DONALD MCKAY and Mr. WINTERS of Boston; all the Messrs. SECORS, Capt. WOOLSEY, Mr. BIRBECK, Mr. DUNHAM, and perhaps half a dozen others.

At 3½ o'clock the vessel was put in commission by the commanding officer, with the following list of officers and crew: 1st Asst. Engineer JOHN M. LAY, Commanding; 2d Asst. Engineers, Chas. H. Stone, J. B. Chadwick, John Smith; Third Assistant Engineer, Byron S. Heath; Quartermaster, Benjamin Baker; seaman, John Bristol; first-class firemen, Wm. Bane, W. Lowry; second-class fireman, Wm. Muller; coal-heavers, D. Coleman, D. Johnson; landsman, S. Thomas (colored;) Edwin Booth, volunteer.

About this time picket-boat No. 6 took her departure for the canal. She would await the arrival of the Stromboli at New-Brunswick. At about 4 o'clock the Stromboli, convoyed by the tug John F. Jenkins, took her departure amid the cheers of the little crowd of spectators. They entered the canal about dusk and arrived at New-Brunswick on Sunday morning, en route for Hampton Roads.

U. S. TORPEDO-BOAT STROMBOLI,
OFF NEW-BRUNSWICK, N. J.,
Nov. 27—2 P. M.

After leaving the dock at Jersey City, we steamed along at the rate of eight knots per hour until 10 P. M., when we came to anchor for the night, everything having worked freely and favorably up to this time. We now discovered that one of the crew was missing, his shoes and overcoat being found on board. It was thought that he had jumped overboard and swam to one of the vessels at anchor in the stream. An officer was at once sent in pursuit, but up to this time we have not found him. At 6 o'clock this morning we hove up anchor and steamed on our way. We entered the canal at 8:30 A. M., and met picket-boat No. 6. We are compelled to wait on account of a lock being drawn for the purpose of raising a sunken boat. We expect to start at 4 o'clock this afternoon. All hands are pleased with the working of the vessel in every respect. Our voyage through this section of the country has amazed the Jerseymen as much as did the first locomotive which passed over its red soil. We live snugly, I can assure you. Our cooking is done in the furnaces. Our food, consisting of corned meats, vegetables, &c., with good hard-tack, is prepared and served in the quaintest manner possible; yet, with the prospect of glory ahead, we relish everything. We expect to arrive in Philadelphia to-morrow.

Miscellaneous Items.

ARRIVAL OF THE CONEMAUGH AT PHILADELPHIA.—The United States gunboat Conemaugh arrived at the Philadelphia Navy-yard on Friday last. She left Mobile Bay on the 10th instant, touching at Key West, Fla., and Beaufort, N. C., for coals. She brought up a number of men whose terms of service have expired. The Conemaugh comes North for repairs to her machinery, such as could not be done at any of the Gulf stations. The following is a list of her officers: Lieut.-Commander, J. C. P. DEKRAFFT; Executive Officer, T. W. Stapleford; Acting Master, James F. Alcorn; Acting Ensigns, W. A. Byrnes, J. D. Hademan; Acting Assistant Surgeon, E. R. Hutchins; Acting Assistant Paymaster, C. E. Taylor; Gunner, J. D. Barton; Acting Master's Mate, H. D. Baldwin; Engineers in charge, A. Lapoint; Second Assistants, P. H. Rendricken, R. Whitehill; Third Assistant, J. F. Knowlton; Captain's Clerk, E. F. Miller; Paymaster's Clerk, E. O. Thomas; Paymaster's Steward, A. Shultz; Surgeon's Steward, A. R. Stemmer; Yeoman, J. G. Front; Master at Arms, M. S. Houston. Passenger, Acting Assistant Paymaster Frank Bissel.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., NAVY-YARD.—A Court of Inquiry is now in session at the Portsmouth Yard to investigate charges made against certain persons in connection with the shipment of naval recruits at that station. It consists of the following members: President, Commodore S. C. ROWAN; Captains, J. R. GOLDSBOROUGH and WM. M. WALKER; Judge Advocate, First Lieut. HY J. BISHOP, U. S. M. Corps. The following vessels are at the yard: Shawmut, to sail in a few days; Franklin, De Soto, Tioga, Agamenticus, Albatross and Memphis. The new marine barracks are almost ready for occupation.

THE DUNDERBERG.—The work on the engines of the great casemate ram Dunderberg, building by W. H. WEBB, Esq., is progressing nicely at the Etna Iron Works, JOHN ROACH & SON, of this city. A board of naval officers are examining the vessel with a view of making some changes in her casemate, &c. The casemate will probably be lengthened, and the turrets dispensed with, so that she will be a very formidable floating battery. The propeller and shaft will soon be ready to put in their places.

THE DICTATOR'S MOVEMENTS.—The latest reports from the Dictator state that as all of the sand and mud has not been washed out of her rudder-step, it will be necessary to dock her; consequently, she is simply lying at her present anchorage, burning up her coals, so she will be in a fit condition to go in dock. It is said to be cheaper to burn up coal at even $12 per ton than to take it out of her by hand. As soon as the sand is removed from the step, she will make a trial trip somewhere.

REVENUE MARINE ITEMS.—Lieut.-Commanding BAKER, of the Tiger, has been detached from that vessel, and ordered to command the guard-ship Varina at Perth Amboy.

—The annual session of the Board of Examiners, for candidates for the revenue marine service, has just opened. The following are the members of the Board: Capt. JOHN FAUNCE, President, and Capts. MERRIMAN and AMAZEEN.

—Lieut.-Commanding EVANS has been relieved from the temporary command of the Varina, and ordered to command the Tiger.

—The new steamer Commodore Perry, one of the steam revenue cutters on the lakes, is about ready for service.

—The Crawford is now stationed at the Narrows as guard-ship in place of the Varina.

—The cutter Thompson, Lieut. DICKERSON commanding, is now stationed at Fire Island.

—The E. A. Stevens has again resumed her station at Throgg's Neck.

—The Cuyahoga has gone to the eastward on a cruise of inspection.

—The Ashuelot went to sea on a cruise Saturday afternoon.

TROTTING ON LONG ISLAND.

FASHION COURSE, Saturday, Nov. 26.—Match $2,000. The stallion Commodore Vanderbilt to beat 2:30 one mile in harness.

Owner named Commodore Vanderbilt....rec'd forfeit.
Backer of Time....paid forfeit.

This young and promising stallion the property of one of our most wealthy and esteemed New-York patrons of the trotting turf, as will be seen above, received forfeit on Saturday in his match to beat 2:30 in harness on the Fashion Course. This young stallion was bred in Vermont by "Columbian," and was purchased by his present owner at the extremely moderate price—taking his merits into account, of $9,500. He only appeared on the Long Island turf toward the close of this season, when the speed and fast time he displayed at once directed the attention of the patrons of trotting to him. The ease with which he defeated Rattlesnake, the Brooklyn champion, resulted in this match against time—(fair day, and good track to be made)—his owner being confident he would accomplish the feat, large sums outside of the stake depending between the rival backers of time, and the stallion. The match was to have been decided nearly a fortnight since, but wet weather set in, followed by frost, rendering the track unfit for fast time. The stipulation of the match was that it should come off "during the month of December" and as that was fast drawing to a close, the owner of the stallion availed himself of the recent two or three fine days which rendered the course fit, and notified the backer of time that he was prepared to go yesterday morning, naming 7 A. M. as the time. At the appointed hour the horse was brought on the track, but the backer of time not putting in an appearance, after some delay the judge directed the stallion to be jogged over the course, and declared his owner entitled to the forfeit of $500. Thus it still remains a mooted question whether The Commodore can beat 2:30 in harness. From personal knowledge of the speed with which he has accomplished the half mile on several occasions, we believe he can and will prove his ability to do so next Spring, if he trains on, making some of the magnates of the trotting turf quail. He has several heavy engagements on hand for the Spring, and a match for $5,000 is talked of between him and the renowned trotting stallion George Wilkes, (late Fillingham.)

The Soldiers Thanksgiving—How Sheridan's Army Enjoyed the Dinner—Letter from Gen. Sheridan.

To the Editor of the New-York Times.

A very large number of the contributors to the Thanksgiving dinner for the soldiers and sailors have expressed a fear that their bounty might not reach those for whom it was intended. The following report from our agent sent to the Shenandoah, with the accompanying papers, will show how successfully the wishes of all have been carried out. No little credit for this is due to the energy of GEORGE F. NOYES, Esq., who, at a few hours' notice, consented, when other arrangements had failed, to take charge of our supplies to the Shenandoah. While we learn briefly that our supplies for the other armies and for the fleet successfully reached their destination, though a small portion was delayed after it left the hands of our agents, we have as yet no full reports. When received they will be published.

GEORGE BLISS, JR., Secretary.

NEW-YORK, Nov. 28, 1864.

NEW-YORK, Nov. 27, 1864.

Col. George Bliss, Jr., Secretary of New-York Thanksgiving Committee:

DEAR SIR: I have great pleasure in reporting that the Thanksgiving Dinner for Gen. SHERIDAN's army arrived safely, was received with great enthusiasm, and that our mission has been a complete success. We reached Winchester Tuesday evening, and the same night the twenty-five wagon loads of poultry came in under heavy escort, a fair proportion—six thousand pounds—having been left behind at Harper's Ferry and Martinsburgh.

The next morning Gen. SHERIDAN sent in an aid and an ambulance to take us to his headquarters, and during our two days' stay he proved by his kindness to us, as your representatives, that he is not only a distinguished soldier but also a most hospitable host and courteous gentleman. He issued orders that your gifts should be distributed only among the enlisted men, and by Wednesday night, through the active exertions of Col. KELLOGG, Chief Commissary of his staff, and his subordinates, the distribution was fully and fairly made. To supply increasing scouting parties and to meet any complaint of short allowance in any quarter, I requested Col. KELLOGG to retain a few hundred pounds, so that all might share your bounty. Thanks to the very cold weather of Tuesday and Wednesday, we found the turkeys in first-rate condition. I inclose herewith Col. KELLOGG's receipt and statement of distribution.

The next day—thanksgiving day—we rode over part of our lines and made personal inquiries and inspection as to the practical result of our mission. The want of proper appliances compelled most of the men to broil or stew their turkeys, but every one seemed fully satisfied and appreciated the significance of this sympathetic thank-offering from the loyal North. One soldier said to me, "It isn't the turkey, but the idea that we care for," and he thus struck the key-note of the whole festival. Could the donors of this thanksgiving gift have been with us on this ride they would have felt satisfied that, whether as a token of grateful appreciation of past valor or as the inspiration of future effort in the good cause, it had not been made in vain.

I inclose herewith a letter of acknowledgment from Gen. SHERIDAN, whose headquarters we left on Friday morning. In conclusion, I desire to tender my thanks to H. W. DOMETT, Esq., who accompanied and aided me; to Mr. REHING, agent of HARNDEN & Co.'s Express at Baltimore; to Col. NEWPORT, Chief Quartermaster at that city; to Capt. FLAGG, Assistant Quartermaster at Harper's Ferry; to the members of Gen. SHERIDAN's Staff, and to every officer whom it was my privilege to meet in and beyond Winchester, for a kindness and attention which made my trip so pleasant and satisfactory.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
GEORGE F. NOYES.

LETTER FROM GEN. SHERIDAN.

HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE MILITARY DIVISION,
Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 24, 1864.

Geo. Bliss, Jr., Secretary, New-York City:

DEAR SIR: Your communication of the 17th inst., with circular, is received.

The poultry so generously forwarded my troops, under the superintendence of Messrs. GEORGE F. NOYES and H. W. DOMETT, of your city, has been equally distributed; and I am confident that as I write—noon Thanksgiving Day—many of our gallant soldiers are tacitly blessing those at home for the kind remembrance so substantially manifested. For them I again thank you. Messrs. NOYES and DOMETT will leave for your city to-morrow. By them you will be advised of all particulars.

I am, Sir, yours respectfully,
P. H. SHERIDAN, Major-General.

LETTER FROM CHIEF COMMISSIONER KELLOGG.

OFFICE OF CHIEF COMMISSARY,
MIDDLE MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

Capt. George F. Noyes and Mr. H. W. Domett:

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt, at your hands, of forty-nine thousand eight hundred and fourteen pounds of poultry, which has been distributed exclusively to the enlisted men of the Army of the Shenandoah, as follows:

[The details are omitted as conveying information that may be contraband.]

I am, gentlemen, very respectfully
Your obedient servant.
JOHN KELLOGG,
Lieut.-Colonel, Chief Com. of Subsistence.

Messages from the Mayor.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, Nov. 25, 1864.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: I return herewith to your Honorable Body the resolution giving permission to WM. CHURCHILL to erect a small office on Pier No. 57 East River, and submit my reasons for not approving the same.

In my opinion no incumbrance should be permitted on the piers and wharves of the city. The public interests demand that the piers should not be appropriated to any other purpose than the accommodation of commerce and shipping. I cannot sanction any infringement of a rule so necessary.

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, 18th Nov., 1864.

To the Honorable the Common Council.

GENTLEMEN: The resolution giving permission to RICHARD CONKLIN to erect a recruiting tent in the City Hall Park is returned herewith without my approval.

In my judgment the Park should not be disfigured by stands not called for by objects of public benefit. If this tent is to be used to recruit for other places than this city, it should not be permitted for a moment. If intended for recruiting for this city, then it is necessary, for the office of the Committee on Volunteering, of which Mr. Supervisor BLUNT is chairman, is situated in the Park, and is the place where those designing to enter the military service, will obtain without fraud or deduction the full bounty allowed volunteers or substitutes.

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, Nov. 28, 1864.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: The resolution giving permission to CHARLES BYERS and THOMAS MCMAHON to erect a stand on Burling-slip is returned herewith, unapproved.

There are numerous stands in this vicinity for the convenience of the public, and I am unwilling to incumber the streets and obstruct the thoroughfare by the erection thereon of any more wooden structures under the designation of "stands."

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

DR. W. R. MERWIN & CO.'S COLUMN

For the

CHEROKEE MEDICINES.

Compounded from Roots, Barks and Leaves.

M

CHEROKEE REMEDY, the great Indian Diuretic, cures all diseases of the Urinary organs, such as Incontinence of the Urine, Inflammation of the Bladder, Inflammation of the Kidneys, Stone in the Bladder, Stricture, Gravel, and is especially recommended in those cases of Fluor Albus where all the old nauseous medicines have failed.

C

CHEROKEE INJECTION OR WASH is intended as an ally or assistant to the Cherokee Remedy.

Its effects are healing, soothing and demulcent, removing all scalding, heat and pain, instead of the burning and almost unbearable pain that is experienced with nearly all cheap quack injections.

By the use of the Cherokee Remedy and Cherokee Injection—the two medicines at the same time—all improper discharges are removed in male or female.

E

CHEROKEE CURE! An unfailing cure for Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, and all diseases caused by self-abuse, such as loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pains in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, Weak Nerves, Difficulty of Breathing, Trembling, Wakefulness, Eruptions, Pale Countenance, Insanity, Consumption, and all the direful complaints caused by departing from the path of nature.

H

This medicine is a simple vegetable extract, and one on which all can rely, as it has been used in our practice for many years, and with thousands treated, it has not failed in a single instance. Its curative powers have been sufficient to subdue the most stubborn cases.

To those who have trifled with their constitution until they think themselves beyond the reach of medical aid, we would say, Despair not! The Cherokee Cure will restore you to health and vigor, and after all quack doctors have failed.

D

DR. WRIGHT'S REJUVENATING ELIXIR, OR ESSENCE OF LIFE.

This medicine is the result of modern discoveries in the vegetable kingdom, and is entirely new and different from any preparation known for the class of diseases for which this is intended. It contains no minerals. It is one of the greatest restoratives for the poor, debilitated, worn-down and despairing devotees of pleasure ever discovered. It will restore to manly health and full power those who have become satiated in the gardens of pleasure, and cause their appetites to eagerly thrill for the luxuries of life.

E

This ELIXIR cures Hysteria, General Debility, Palpitation of the Heart and Impotency. It restores mental power and the appetite, and causes the rose to mount the cheek of paleness, and the debilitated man or woman to feel vigorous and strong, the young and ambitious blood to course through every vein, the nerves to become strong, and the fires of new life and vigor to reanimate the entire body, building up the constitution, restoring joy and life to many a sad and darkened fireside.

CHEROKEE PILLS.

FEMALE REGULATOR.

Compounded from pure vegetable extracts and coated with the best white sugar—as easy and delicious to take as sugar candy—these "Pills" are intended to remove obstructions, and to insure regularity in the occurrence of the monthly periods.

By bringing on and regulating the monthly periods, they effectually cure all diseases and effects brought on by suppression, or those caused by the deranged female organs.

I

☞ They cure Nervous and Spinal Affections, pains in the back and lower parts of the body, Heaviness, Fatigue on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Lowness of Spirits, Hysteria, Sick Headache, Giddiness, &c., &c. In a word, by removing the irregularity, they remove the cause, and with it ALL the effects that spring from it. Composed of simple vegetable extracts, they contain nothing deleterious to any constitution, however delicate.

R

PRICES OF THE CHEROKEE MEDICINES.

Cherokee Cure.
$2 a bottle, or 3 bottles for $5.

Dr. Wright's Elixir.

Cherokee Pills, for Females,
$1 a box, or 6 boxes for $5.

C

We send all of the Cherokee Medicines by express (except the Cherokee Pills, these are sent by mail, free,) on receipt of price, to any part of the civilized world, securely packed, in such a manner that no one through whose hands they may pass would know the contents.

Ladies or gentlemen can address us in perfect confidence, and we will in all cases frankly answer their letters, and give our opinion of each individual case. We prescribe no minerals.

O

Patients living at a distance need not hesitate because of their inability to visit us. We have treated successfully the afflicted in all portions of the world, by correspondence.

Parties addressing us should state the disease and symptoms, and the full particulars in regard to their cases, in order to give a full knowledge of their complaints, and, unless a cure is possible, we will not hold out inducements to them in order to sell our medicine.

I

We wish all to distinctly understand that our preparations are not cheap ones. We do not fill a quart bottle with worthless trash and sell it for a dollar; but we do claim that our medicines are far superior to any preparation ever placed before the public, and that they have real intrinsic worth and merit. That they will cure the diseases for which we recommend them more promptly and thoroughly than any others. One trial will convince the most skeptical.

K

The CHEROKEE MEDICINES are sold by all enterprising druggists in the civilized world. Some unprincipled dealers, however, try to sell worthless compounds in place of these—those which they can get at a cheap price and make more money by selling than they can on the Cherokee Medicines. As you value your health—aye, the health of your offspring—do not be deceived by such unprincipled druggists.

N

If the druggists will not buy them for you, write to us, and we will send them to you by express.

For full particulars inquire at your nearest druggist for our thirty-two page pamphlet. If you are unable to procure it where you live, write us, inclosing postage stamps, and we will inclose it in a securely sealed envelope, free from observation.

E

All letters asking advice or ordering our medicines, will meet with prompt attention.
